RUSSIA WRECKS BRITISH PLAN TO NEUTRALIZE SPAIN WITH DEMAND FOR COMPLETE RECALL OF VOLUNTEERS

ROY GARR FREED BY FARMER JURY IN DENHARDT CASE

Acquittal Follows Earlier Dismissal of Murder Charges Against Younger Brother on Motion of Defense to Court.

APPLAUSE GREET'S RETURN OF VERDICT

Hundreds Crowd Courtroom as Word That Decision Had Been Reached Spread Rapidly.

SHELBYVILLE, Ky., Oct. 22.—(AP)—Another chapter was completed tonight in the blood-stained romance of Brigadier General Henry H. Denhardt and Verna Garr Taylor when a jury acquitted Roy Garr, brother of Mrs. Taylor, of killing Denhardt.

The jury, composed of 12 tobacco farmers, returned the verdict one hour and 15 minutes after receiving the case.

Wild Demonstration.

Announcement of the decision, "We find Roy Garr not guilty," set off a wild demonstration, both in the tiny courtroom and in the business section of this wealthy little bluegrass town, where the 61-year-old general was cut down by bullets September 30 on the eve of his second trial on a charge of killing Mrs. Taylor, his attractive fiancée.

Despite the admonition of Judge Charles C. Marshall, who also had presided at Denhardt's first trial, hundreds of spectators burst into the courtroom and by hundreds of townsfolk, the word of the verdict having spread like wildfire through the town.

Judge Marshall and Sheriff Forrest Barnes rapped for order.

Verdict Is Cheered.

After a measure of order had been restored, Judge Marshall polled each juror and each in turn answered "not guilty." The enthusiastic throng cheered each response.

After the last juror had been polled, the crowd rushed to congratulate both Roy and Jack, who were freed earlier in the day. Deputy sheriffs had to force a passage through the milling throng to permit the Garrs and their nieces, Mrs. Mary Pryor Brown and Miss Frances Taylor, daughters of Mrs. Taylor, to leave the courtroom.

Said Roy, 46-year-old farmer and dog fancier:

"I am going back to LaGrange and forget it all. My wife is sick and I want to get back to her."

Mother "Pretty Sick."

Jack revealed his mother was "pretty sick" and said he was anxious to return to her bedside. He believed the verdict would make her feel a great deal better, however, he said.

The defense counsel also received congratulations from friends of the Garrs.

Shelbyville people continued to mill around the streets long after the courtroom had been cleared. The commonwealth had been de-

Youth Shot To Death By Plant Watchman

An unidentified white youth, about 20, late last night was shot and killed by J. A. Brown, night watchman.

Reports to police said the victim of the watchman's bullet was attempting to burglarize the See and Jay Auto Body Company at 137 Marietta street.

The youth, who entered through a broken window pane in the rear of the building, was shot by a 12-gauge shotgun. A search of his clothing failed to reveal any means of identification.

Brown was placed on duty as night watchman three days ago following a series of five burglaries.

Auburn Today To Meet "Positive Attitude"

Auburn today will get a dose of "a positive attitude of mind" if Georgia Tech players heed the advice of Professor John Henry Henka. Tech's grand old man, known as Uncle Henka to the students, told freshmen at their pep meeting last night the "positive attitude" was needed to win. The portable microphone he uses in lecturing to his classes aided him in conveying his bit of advice.

Suspended Terms and Fines Given to 21 Lottery Men

Twenty-one lottery "big shots," indicted by the Fulton county grand jury Thursday, entered pleas of guilty in superior court yesterday, professed that they would "go straight" from now on, and were let off with fines and suspended sentences.

The "bug" bosses, indicted after an exhaustive 60-day probe into organized rackets in Atlanta, gave their "word of honor" not to go back into their vacated lottery activities.

Admitting their guilt to the court, the so-called "higher ups"—19 white men and two negroes—in repentant tones declared they had ceased operation entirely, that they were ready to become law-abiding citizens.

Andrews Satisfied.

Special Prosecutor E. E. Andrews informed the court he would be satisfied with fines and suspended sentences, in answer to the court's query as to whether such a penalty would serve as sufficient to put a check to the lottery and allied rackets.

Judge Edgar E. Pomeroy, who took the bench to hear the pleas in the absence of Judge E. D. Thomas, was hesitant about excusing with fines and suspended sentences the lottery men whom the grand jury had run to ground after 60 days of arduous investigation.

Judge Thomas, who was to hear the pleas, was critically ill at his home following a heart attack.

Ten fines of $1,000 were imposed on the so-called "big shots," while 11 others received lesser fines of $500 and $250.

Suspended sentences of five years were dealt out with the fines.

Pomeroy Cites Records.

When Judge Pomeroy pointed to previous convictions of some of the men and asked about their intentions as to other criminal activity, they gave their word of honor that they were through with all crime.

Lawyers representing the lottery men were William Schley Howard, J. O. Ewing, W. Paul Carpenter, Swift Tyler and C. W. Buchanan. Mrs. Helen Billingsley, woman

Appraisers Differ by $1,221, 250 In Valuing Lindsey Hopkins' Estate

MIAMI, Fla., Oct. 22.—(AP)—A difference of $1,221,250 in appraised worth of the estate of Lindsey Hopkins, Atlanta and Miami developer, was disclosed today in reports to probate court.

Emery Flynn calculated the estate's net worth at $4,101,831, while another appraiser, William A. Lane, fixed the net worth at $5,323,081.

Lane, however, said in an accompanying letter that he would accept Flynn's appraisal because of the other's knowledge of stock values.

Flynn placed the estate's assets at $4,222,419, excluding insurance of $517,300 carried by Hopkins at the time of his death in Atlanta on August 17. Liabilities amounted to $120,588.

Flynn valued the Hopkins stock holdings at $380,313, and Lane, $495,068. Hopkins' quarter interest in Lindsey Hopkins and associates was appraised by Flynn at $2,694,493, and by Lane at $3,800,933.

Hopkins, whose legal residence was here, provided jewelry and personal effects should go to the widow, and the residue equally to Mrs. Hopkins; a son, Lindsey Jr., and a daughter, Mrs. Sara Hopkins Beach. The son is the administrator.

PURGE OF POLICE, DRY LAW REPEAL URGED BY JURORS

"Rackets Cannot Exist Without Protection," Crime Probers Warn in Call Upon Successors To Eradicate Grafters.

ONE MORE WEEK LEFT FOR WINDUP

"Backbone of 'Bug' Has Been Broken in Atlanta," Report Says, Asking Stiff Fines for Players.

A call upon the next grand jury to make a "thorough purge of grafting law enforcement officers" was made yesterday in special presentations of the present Fulton county grand jury, winding up its 60-day probe into the numbers rackets in Atlanta.

The presentments expressed the grand jury's belief that the "backbone of the lottery game has been broken," and urged that the new jury take up the probe into organized racketeering, laying particular emphasis on police "pay-offs" and the hijacking racket, "that is becoming so serious and alarming in this community." The presentments said:

"It is a known fact that rackets could not exist in this community without protection, and we feel that the time has come when the public should be made to realize the danger of permitting such conditions to exist."

"There is sufficient evidence to convince us that graft does exist, but we will not be able, in our short time, to get enough corroborative testimony to indict."

Charging that "the bulk of all lawlessness in this community has its foundation in the illicit liquor trade," the grand jury reiterated recommendations previously made by other grand juries—that Georgia's prohibition be repealed and laws enacted to permit "proper and efficient control" of the sale of liquor.

A recommendation that the incoming grand jury further investigate the bootlegging racket was also in the special presentments.

The present jury has a week left of its term. The new jury will be sworn in November 1 and will be charged by Judge Edgar E. Pomeroy.

Part of the presentments followed:

"We believe that the backbone of the lottery game has been broken and if the policy is adopted of putting writers, pick-up men and operators under very heavy bonds

STATE EMPLOYERS ORGANIZE TO FIGHT WAGE, HOUR BILL

Campaign Against Law Proposed by Roosevelt Launched by Executives of 71 Trade Groups at Meeting Held in City.

DEFINITE PROGRAM TO BE DEVELOPED

Activity Will Culminate in Mass Meeting Here on November 3; Macon Executives Are Speakers

A statewide campaign against President Roosevelt's proposal for a law regulating wages and hours was launched here yesterday by 71 executives of Georgia trade associations representing more than 7,000 employers.

The meeting was sponsored by the Georgia Manufacturers' Association, the southern pine industry committee and the cotton manufacturers of Georgia. It was held at the Chamber of Commerce with T. M. Brumby, of Marietta, president of the Georgia Manufacturers' Association, presiding.

President Roosevelt is expected to seek action on the wage and hour legislation at the coming special session of congress, due to be convened November 15. Brumby announced at the conclusion of yesterday's meeting that group meetings would be held between now and November 3 in many cities in Georgia and that a statewide mass meeting would be held on November 3, at which a definite program to lay the opposition before Georgia's delegation in congress would be developed.

New Bill Drawn.

The senate passed the Black-Connelly wage and hour bill during the regular session early this year, but it was not brought up in the house when opposition in the rules committee, led by Representative E. E. Cox, of Georgia, prevented action on the floor.

Since the session Senator Black has resigned from the senate to accept an appointment to the supreme court and Representative Connelly died, but it is known that a new bill, similar to the Black-Connelly measure, is being drawn for presentation to congress.

Chief speakers at yesterday's meeting were W. D. Anderson, of Macon, president of the Bibb Manufacturing Company, and Scott Russell, also of Macon.

The following resolution was adopted at the meeting:

"Whereas the President of the United States has called congress in special session to meet on November 15, and one of the bills 'With all the publicity that has been given on this racket, we be-

ATLANTA LAGGING IN CHEST SUPPORT

Less Than 3d of Needed Funds Given as Drive Passes Halfway Mark.

Subscriptions in the Community Chest campaign rose to $151,938 yesterday at the third report meeting, as the campaign entered the second half with less than a third of the needed funds raised.

Pledges on the third working day were $46,511, including more than $11,000 from the business divisions.

Harvey Sommers, addressing the workers, declared that the situation faced in the campaign was a serious one.

"The time has come to be militant about what we are facing," he said. "The simple fact is that the people of Atlanta are not giving according to their means. We are lagging even behind last year, when we failed by more than $50,000 to meet the minimum needed."

I appeal to the people of Atlanta to listen to the volunteer workers in this campaign, and respond generously to their appeal, which is in behalf of those people who need help most desperately."

One of the highlights of the third meeting was the announcement by Harold Hirsch, outstanding civic leader, that the Jewish Welfare board of Atlanta had made a substantial contribution to the Chest campaign in honor of the late Felix Warburg, of New York.

Dr. David Marx, pastor of The Temple, was the principal speaker at yesterday's meeting.

EDITOR LORIMER DIES IN 70TH YEAR

Pneumonia Takes Builder of Saturday Evening Post; Quit in January.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 22.—(AP) George Horace Lorimer, editor who guided the Saturday Evening Post in its rise from a little known magazine, died tonight at 10:30 p. m. (Atlanta time.) He was 69 years old.

Lorimer, who retired from the editorship January 1, 1937, had been critically ill with pneumonia since last Thursday at his home in suburban Wyncote.

He contracted a cold several weeks ago, Dr. Walter T. Annon, his personal physician, said the cold developed into bronchitis, which was followed by pneumonia.

Lorimer, who had passed the crisis several days ago, suffered a relapse early tonight. His physician said the pneumonia had put a strain on his heart.

Wife at Bedside.

Lorimer's sons, Burford and Graeme, and his wife were at his bedside when he died.

Funeral arrangements will be announced tomorrow.

Lorimer made two starts in his career before he joined the Saturday Evening Post.

One of those starts was in the meat packing business in Chicago. Eight years later he quit for a reporter's job on the Boston Globe.

Two years later he was on his way to Philadelphia as the result of a letter of application to Cyrus

POWERS WRANGLE FOR FOUR HOURS IN ANGRY SESSION

Italy Reaffirms Support of Proposal for "Token" Withdrawals, But Asserts She Won't Accept Count by Committee.

MOSCOW ACCUSES ROME OF BAD FAITH

Acceptance Termed Merely Shrewd Move Designed To Shift Blame for Failure on Kremlin.

LONDON, Oct. 22.—(AP)—Britain's plan to end foreign intervention in Spain reached a new crisis tonight.

Italy, in a stormy session of the nonintervention subcommittee demanded unanimous acceptance of the proposals to evacuate foreign volunteers from Spain and Soviet Russia refused to agree.

In a wrangle which lasted four hours and nearly broke up in complete disagreement of the powers, these developments occurred:

1. Italy reaffirmed agreement to the British plan but stipulated all other nations on the committee also must agree.

2. Russia refused to agree because the plan proposed that belligerent rights should be granted to Spain's warring parties "after substantial progress is made" in volunteer withdrawals, a step she said she would not consider until all volunteers are withdrawn.

Won't Accept Count.

Italy and Portugal stated they could not consider themselves bound by figures of two commissions which the nonintervention committee proposes to send to Spain in order to count the foreign fighters and supervise their evacuation.

No agreement was reached on these three vital points.

The subcommittee, holding its 67th meeting, finally prepared a series of propositions for inclusion in a draft resolution which set out the principal points under discussion and practically the only thing it agreed upon was that the resolution should be presented to the governments represented.

Informed sources said the delegates hoped to be able to meet again Monday.

Acceptance a Ruse.

These sources charged that Italy's demand for unanimous agreement on the British plan was a shrewd move by Count Dino Grandi, Italian ambassador in London and his country's representative on the subcommittee, to shift the blame for ineffectiveness of nonintervention to Russia.

They pointed out that Italy agreed without reservation to the British plan Wednesday with the knowledge of Russia's unwillingness to consider the question of belligerent rights until all foreign volunteers were removed from Spain.

Russia at that time was understood to have agreed to step aside to let those who still were willing to prolong the nonintervention experiment to do the best they could.

Soviet Ambassador Ivan Maisky in the meeting today jumped up after the Italian ambassador's demand his country agree to the plan

SAFETY STRESSED IN NEW PONTIACS ON DISPLAY HERE

1938 Models Exhibited in Showrooms of Atlanta; Many Changes.

Retaining the distinctive badge of the "Silver Streak," the new Pontiac models for 1938, stressing safety in many style and mechanical refinements, go on public display in showrooms of Atlanta.

Built on both a six and eight-cylinder chassis, the two lines are each offered in a choice of eight body styles. The outstanding features of both lines are complete new treatment of the front and styling, optional control gear shift lever, enlarged generator, relocation of the battery beneath the hood and improved synchro-mesh transmission.

Engineers have pronounced the new remote control shift lever one of the outstanding mechanical developments of the new season. This new "Safety Shift," as it is called, represents the culmination of six years of research for a safe and simple substitute for conventional gear shift lever and is optional on either the six or eight at slight extra cost.

Same Body Styles.
The same body styles are available on both six and eight-cylinder chassis: 3-passenger standard coupe, 5-passenger sport coupe and cabriolet, 6-passenger two-door and four-door sedans, two-door and four-door touring sedans and convertible phaetons.

With the six built on a 117-inch wheelbase and the eight on 122, the two chassis are powered by motors delivering 85 and 100 horsepower respectively.

Most striking in the new exterior appearance is the restyled front end. The chromium grille is retained, but is added to in such a way as to give the impression of extreme power and beauty. Radiator ornaments are redesigned in a modernistic manner and die-cast shields conceal the headlamp bracket adjusting cavities.

Interiors Are New.
Interiors are new, as are exterior colors and combinations.

The interior design, upholstery, hardware and instrument panels are new, achieving the dual purpose of increasing the beauty and

Grand Jury Presentments

Hon. E. D. Thomas, Judge, Fulton Superior Court.

WHEREAS, in accordance with the charge given us by the court, this Grand Jury has made an investigation of the lottery racket, known as the "bug," We respectfully make this our report to the court, as a special presentment:

We have made an extensive study of this racket, and wish to take this opportunity to commend Assistant Solicitor E. E. Andrews for his untiring efforts and the splendid manner in which he has co-operated with the Grand Jury in its investigation. He has done an excellent job, and through his efforts we were enabled to return true bills against the racket operators. It is our recommendation that those operators against whom indictments are returned, be brought to speedy trial and punished by the courts as evidence will permit.

We believe that the backbone of the lottery game has been broken and if the policy is adopted of putting writers, pick-up men and operators under very heavy bonds and heavy fines and straight chain gang sentences for second offenders, we feel that this racket will be definitely stopped. It is also suggested that lottery cars be confiscated and sold just as is now done with liquor cars.

We feel that the public is not fully aware of the seriousness of this racket and strongly urge and recommend that the general presentments of this Grand Jury be fully and carefully read by all good citizens. To the average person playing the "bug," it is just an innocent lark and he does not realize the consequences.

With all the publicity that has been given on this racket, we believe the time has now come to fine players when caught with tickets, and the fines in this case should also be heavy.

Due to the shortness of our term, it will be impossible for us to go to the grand jury to law enforcement officers. There is sufficient evidence to convince us that racket exists, but we will not be able, in our short time, to get enough corroborative testimony to indict. It is a known fact that racket exists and that racket racket does not exist in this community without protection, and we feel that the time has come when the public should be made to realize the danger of permitting such conditions to exist. Unless public sentiment is aroused and a thorough purge made of grafting law enforcement officers, in both the City and County departments, it is only a question of time until crime will become rampant in the community; and the question now is whether or not the public will become sufficiently interested to demand that law and order shall prevail. Full co-operation from the citizens is necessary to prevent the criminal element

1938 Pontiac Powerful and Is Beautifully Finished

The 1938 Pontiac eight-cylinder four-door touring sedan, which is on display in Atlanta dealers' showrooms today, is powerful, roomy, finished in design. It has 122-inch wheelbase and a 100-horsepower engine. With new body interiors, parking lights, integral headlamps and Pontiac designed safety shift, it has room for three adults both in the front and rear seats.

comfort of the car while adding measurably to its safety.

An ultra-modern and symmetrically balanced instrument panel highlights the interior and dictates its tone. Slightly more vertical than last year, the panel is finished in blege lustre on the eight and in rich African blistered hairwood on the six. This type of design eliminates sharp projections in the event a person should be jarred against the panel under a sudden stop.

A boon for short drivers is the adjustable front seat arrangement whereby the back becomes more vertical as the seat adjustment is moved forward. Windshield angle at 39 degrees is high and wide for better vision and safety.

All of the Pontiac features of 1937 are retained—but with many improvements.

Disabled Veteran, Sick and in Need, Inherits $15,000

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Oct. 22.—(AP) Red Cross officials gave assistance today to a disabled war veteran who told them he had just inherited "about $15,000," providing him with funds to go to Union City, Tenn., to meet his wife.

The man, who identified himself as Walter J. Blaney, 46, of La Place, Ill., said he came here in June to obtain treatment at the United States Veterans' hospital.

A Red Cross investigator said that a few hours after Blaney came to the office last night to advise them of his discharge from the hospital and of his need for assistance in getting further treatment, he reappeared with the announcement of his sudden good fortune.

The inheritance, he said, came from the estate of an uncle, George G. Blaney, of Los Angeles, from whom he had not heard in 30 years. He said attorneys located him in Memphis last night and gave him the news.

Ban on Left Turns at Tenth Is Killed

Ordinance prohibiting left turns on Peachtree street at Tenth street was vetoed yesterday by Mayor Hartsfield, as he signed all other papers passed by council last Monday.

Hartsfield explained that he approved making Tenth street from Peachtree to Crescent avenue one-way for westbound traffic, and that the left turn ban would not be necessary. Councilman John A. White, of the fifth ward, sponsored the ban but other ward representatives opposed it.

lieve the time has now come to fine players when caught with tickets, and the fines in this case should also be heavy.

Full co-operation from the citizens is necessary to prevent the criminal element from gaining sufficient power to jeopardize life, business and property.

"We, therefore, recommend and urge that the incoming grand jury thoroughly investigate payoffs and also thoroughly investigate the hi-jacking racket that is becoming so serious and alarming in this community, and to investigate bookmaking; and that those responsible for the continuance of the racket be brought to justice speedily.

"This grand jury has reached the inevitable conclusion that the bulk of all lawlessness in this community has its root in the illicit liquor traffic. We are further convinced that no permanent elimination of rackets can or will be accomplished so long as the liquor traffic is not thoroughly and adequately controlled.

"This grand jury, therefore, strongly recommends the repeal of prohibition, and the enactment of laws to permit proper and efficient control, regulation and supervision of the sale of liquor."

he was married, and he was the one who got me the way I was."

She said she took her father's revolver with her because I remembered what happened in Linden and I didn't want it to happen again. She testified she first knew Reeves as "Jack Lyons" and he did not tell her he was married until after the first attack.

Judge Lyons, in his charge, said the jurors would have to "decide upon the truth of the defendant's story," but urged them not to be swayed by "sentiment, sex complexes or sympathy."

Judge's Comment.
Asserting that an attack must be proved to justify the killing, the court added:

"The so-called unwritten law whereby one kills another to avenge her honor has no recognition in the courts of New Jersey. There is always a psychology which has a tendency to bring into cases of this kind that unwritten law. The jury must resist this tendency."

Mrs. Myra Reeves, widow of the slain mill worker, who pleaded from the witness stand yesterday for the defendant "please to tell the truth," went almost unnoticed today in the courtroom excitement. She wept quietly, then left with her mother for her parents' home in Linden.

HULL TELLS CANADA OF PATH TO PEACE

'Outraged Conscience of Mankind' Will Halt Lawlessness, He Says.

TORONTO, Oct. 22.—(AP)—Secretary of State Cordell Hull exchanged "good neighbor" messages today with Canadian officials and expressed the belief that international lawlessness eventually will be brought to an end by forces set in motion by "the outraged conscience of mankind."

At a luncheon in his honor, Hull told Prime Minister W. L. Mackenzie King: "I am happy to take back with me to my people your message of a good neighbor, just as I was happy in the privilege of bringing such a message to Canada in the name of the government and people of the United States."

Later at the University of Toronto, where he received the honorary degree of doctor of laws, Hull spoke on "International Lawlessness," but did not mention specifically the conflicts in China and Spain.

"Just as, sooner or later, the outraged conscience of a community or nation sets into motion forces which re-establish order under law," he said, "so I firmly believe the outraged conscience of mankind will set in motion forces which will create, in the sphere of international relations, unshakable order based on law."

Japanese claims of further progress toward Tazang were partly substantiated by American military observers who said they spotted enemy planes and rifle fire from Chinese defenses on the outskirts of the town. They placed the main body of Japanese at more than a mile away.

Both Chinese and Japanese claimed capture of Kwangju, an important point on the route to Kiating. In the rear of the 25-mile Chinese defense line. The bitter fighting with its confusion of attack and counterattack made it impossible for foreign observers to determine the precise situation. The bloody character of the fighting was indicated by the departure for Japan of a hospital ship loaded with wounded while another arrived to take on additional disabled.

In North China at Tsinan, capital of Shantung province, the Japanese navy general, Admiral Kuroshima, bluntly rejected Japanese overtures with the statement, "I shall resist Japan to the bitter end regardless of the consequences and sacrifices."

Dispatches of the Domei (Japanese) News Agency indicated the Japanese army was heading at the main concentrations of Han's troops and intended to force the issue with him before driving due south for the Yellow river.

Mongol Parley.
High Japanese sources at Peiping, Peking, said they had confirmed the formation of an autonomous North China government by the Mongol Prince Teh at Kweisui, Suiyuan province. A conference of Mongol chieftains to consider the political future of the region was being held at Peiping, however, to have opened at Kweisui today.

The Chinese government announced its delegates to the nine-power conference at Brussels October 30, which is to seek means of halting the conflict, would be V. K. Wellington Koo, Quo Tai-Chi and Chien Tai, ambassadors to France, England and Belgium, respectively.

(At Tokyo) the foreign office spokesman said Japan's invitation had been received so late it allowed little time for preparation and indicated Japan might ask for a postponement.)

JUDGE THOMAS BETTER AFTER HEART ATTACK

Judge E. D. Thomas, of Fulton superior court, was reported "much improved" last night following a heart attack Thursday night. Earlier in the day his condition had been described as "critical" but physicians said they were "much encouraged" over improvement during the day.

TROOPER ATTACKS 'MONTY'S' DENIAL

Defendant Was With Confessed Robber Shortly After Crime, He Says.

ELIZABETHTOWN, N. Y., Oct. 22.—(AP)—A state trooper's testimony that he saw John Montague, Hollywood golfer, with a confessed participant in a $700 roadhouse holdup soon after its commission climaxed today the state's evidence in the seven-year-old robbery case against the defendant.

District Attorney Thomas W. McDonald rested his case that required only two days' testimony and the defense called three witnesses before court recessed until Monday.

Trooper Harry Durand put the final touch on the state's case by identifying Montague, alias Laverne Moore, as the occupant of a car with Roger Norton when he stopped the machine to question them. Norton confessed to the crime and served a prison sentence.

This, the trooper said, was at Schraon Lake, about 50 miles from the place where Kin Hana's roadhouse was looted, and within a few hours after the crime.

Earlier, the state put in evidence an automobile operator's license issued in 1930 to Laverne Moore, purportedly found in one of the two cars in which the four robbers drove from the scene of the crime.

A golf bag containing 13 iron and three wooden clubs was found in the car, the sergeant testified, along with articles of men's clothing, letters to Laverne Moore and newspaper clippings referring to Moore's feats on the links and baseball diamond in central New York.

The defense, through three witnesses called before court adjourned, attempted to discredit Norton's character.

Gustave Boucher, a police officer of Norton's one-time home town of Mechanicville, said the ex-convict had a "bad reputation."

INSURANCE FIRMS FIGHT TAX RULING

Seek To Restrain County From Collecting $250,000 on Intangibles

Twenty-eight national insurance companies filed injunction proceedings in Fulton superior court yesterday to restrain the Fulton county board of tax assessors from attempting to collect $250,000 in taxes on intangibles in this county.

The plaintiff insurance companies name the Fulton county tax receivers and collectors along with the assessors and charge that the attempted assessment violates both state and federal constitutions.

Judge Hugh M. Dorsey signed a temporary order and made the hearing returnable October 29.

Collection Threatened.

The tax assessors had notified the insurance companies that unless a return was made on the intangibles, including notes, deeds and mortgages on real estate in Fulton county, they would proceed with collection immediately, beginning October 22.

Charging the assessment, covering a period of years from 1931 through 1937, violates "due process" laws of federal and state constitutions, the insurance companies further branded as illegal the assessors' threat to assess the full market value of the intangible assets.

Fulton county, in levying intangible tax, assesses up to 15 per cent of the market values where a return is made. The tax assessors, the petition sets out, had threatened to proceed to collect full 100 per cent value unless a return was made by the companies.

Deny Return Mandatory.

The insurance companies claim they do not have to make a return because the notes and deeds and other paper held in security of real estate in this county are held in home offices in other states.

The intangibles tax assessors are attempting to tax are not used in the transaction of their business in Fulton county, the insurance companies added.

Homer Gullatt, member of the board, issued a statement supporting the county's side in the collection of the taxes, as follows:

For the past three years the Fulton county board of tax assessors has been assessing intangibles in accordance with the Georgia constitution and laws of Georgia, and has paid only a fractional portion of the taxes to the state.

The taxation of credits represented by notes secured by land commonly referred to as mortgages is mandatory under the constitution and laws of Georgia, just as is any other property having value. The Georgia constitution imperatively requires that all property having value be taxed. It is the duty of the legislature pursuant to authority in the constitution must be taxed.

Pity Poor Robber Of Baltimore Girl!

BALTIMORE, Oct. 22.—(AP)—Pity the poor fellow who tries to rob a Baltimore girl! Just hear what happened this afternoon:

Millicent Fisher, a telephone operator, caught a purse-snatcher and held him until he was arrested.

"I wasn't going to lose a week's salary," she said. Marie Stallman, a loan office cashier, ordered to "stick 'em up," ran into another room and locked the door. The holdup man fled empty-handed after firing one shot through the door.

3 GIRLS TAKE STAND IN INSURANCE PLOT

Daughters Fail To Testify for Father at Attempted Murder Trial.

MEDIA, Pa., Oct. 22.—(AP)—Albert R. Knight's three daughters and a son described in Delaware county court today the fire at their Lansdowne home last May which the commonwealth charges Knight started in a plot to murder them and collect $120,000 insurance on the girls.

Testifying as state witnesses at the former oil company executive's trial on charges of arson and attempted murder, the children, Ruth, 23; Susan, 19; Mary, 17, and David, 15, followed each other to the witness stand and gave their version of the fire.

Ruth, a choir singer, said smoke was so thick when she was awakened by Mary that she placed a water-soaked cloth over her face. She said she and Mary awakened the other children and that they fled in their night clothes after calling firemen. Susan, a hospital technician, testified she attempted to enter the basement where the fire started, but found the door barred.

The children previously had said they would testify for their father.

Draft Resolution.

A draft resolution finally prepared for submission to the various governments asked three questions:

1. Do the governments agree to be bound by the commissions' figures?

2. If not, will they suggest another method by which an agreement may be reached?

3. Will they agree to 1,000 as the figure for the "token" withdrawals of foreign fighters from Spain?

King George VI earlier, in a speech proroguing parliament, echoed the deep concern of his ministers in their efforts to prevent the Spanish conflict from spreading beyond the borders.

FRANCO MOPS UP, PICKS MADRID NEXT

Victory in North Releases 100,000 Troops for War in East.

HENDAYE, Franco-Spanish Frontier, Oct. 22.—(AP)—Generalissimo Francisco Franco, armed with more complete power than ever before as dictator of insurgent Spain, today turned his attention from the conquered northwest to the vital eastern fronts.

While the two-thirds of Spain under his control celebrated the fall of Gijon and collapse of government resistance in the northwest, Franco tightened his hold on the reins.

It was disclosed that the decree signed by the Fascist national council, announced yesterday, gave Franco the right to name secretly his own successor as dictator of Spain. It provided all executive power shall be exercised by Franco and his ministers, of whom he is expected shortly to name ten.

Madrid Next.

Insurgent officers said the greater part of nearly 100,000 insurgent troops who have been fighting in Asturias would be transferred soon to the Aragon and Madrid fronts. Only small forces would be left to clean up the conquered northwest.

General Franco broadcast a declaration that "the northern front has officially disappeared." Both sides were girding for a death struggle on the eastern front, especially those of Aragon. Fierce fighting was in progress in that region, where a major battle has raged intermittently for two weeks.

Destroyer Sunk.
Sinking of the Spanish government destroyer Ciscar by insurgent warplanes was reported to-night by the chief of gendarmes in Arachon.

He said that 38 Spanish sailors who arrived there on the Spanish government launch Mitote declared they were part of the warship's crew rescued when the Ciscar went down last Wednesday night in Gijon harbor.

LOYALISTS TO ARREST CONSPIRACY DOGGERS

VALENCIA, Spain, Oct. 23.—(Saturday)—(AP)—The war ministry issued a decree today curtailing exemptions from the two military drafts ordered by the Spanish government since last February.

An inspection commission was named by the war department to visit factories and shops with an armed guard and examine men claiming exemption. The commission will have power to arrest immediately those eligible for mobilization and take them to recruiting bases.

Prisoner Slaps Lawyer Crespi In Courthouse

A dispute between Hugh Downs, identified at a court hearing as the operator of a "protective" racket and Joseph Crespi, Atlanta attorney, led to blows yesterday in a courthouse corridor and a brief altercation in the solicitor general's office, where alleged hi-jacking activities are being investigated.

Downs told Solicitor General Boykin that he had hired Crespi to make the $2,000 bond when the two met in the courthouse yesterday, where the solicitor general was investigating the charges, Downs slapped the lawyer.

A few minutes later, Crespi tried to strike Downs in the solicitor general's office, but hefty special investigators separated the two.

He charged that Crespi had taken his car to hold as security for the bond but later refused to furnish the $2,000 bond. When the two met in the courthouse yesterday, where the solicitor general was investigating the charges, Downs slapped the lawyer.

EASIER STEERING, LUXURY FEATURES IN NEW PLYMOUTH

Brilliant Designed Cars on Display in City's Showrooms Today.

A new Plymouth of brilliant design—with easier steering, safer vision and many new luxury features for the low price field—officially opens Plymouth's tenth anniversary "Jubilee" this week as 1938 models are formally unveiled in showrooms of Atlanta dealers.

Hailed as the outstanding model in the company's 10-year career, the new Plymouth challenges comparison with cars above its own price class for riding performance and in style appointments. It sets a new standard for quietness and smoothness.

The Jubilee car again features unusual size and roominess, with ample space for six passengers in all sedan models. Extra wide shoulder room, headroom and legroom are provided by its big all-steel body of safety design.

Overall Length 194 inches. Overall length of all models is 194 inches, from bumper to bumper. The complete Plymouth line for 1938 includes three "business" and eight "De Luxe" body types—all of 112-inch wheelbase with L-head engine of 82 horsepower. It definitely looks bigger and more luxurious.

Included in the changes are larger headlamps, larger fenders, and the new hood sweeps farther forward to meet a new grille. Plymouth introduces a new hood design with side-fillet panels, and only the top sections swing open for routine service, water and oil. The handle remains the same, on the side panel.

This year's windshield is larger, giving safer vision inside the car. A more effective glass area and greater depth in the vertical plane result in better visibility.

Interior Color Scheme. The interior color scheme for 1938 is sable brown, with coach herringbone accents at the center spots of two instrument dials, and on the horn button. Upholstery materials are optional, broadcloth or mohair.

All controls are sunk or recessed in the instrument panel. Dials are face-lighted, for better visibility at night instead of a glare.

Besides useful space in luggage compartments, adjustable front seat, new cushions and "safety-styling," the new Plymouth offers a large number of other improvements at which prospective car-buyers will marvel and like.

NEW SUPER-LINER CONTRACT SIGNED

U. S. To Spend $15,750,000 To Replace Leviathan.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 22.—(AP)—The government took a major step today in its effort to subsidize a revival of the American merchant marine, signing a $15,750,000 contract for construction of a successor to the famous old liner Leviathan.

Construction of the ship, the largest ever built in American yards, will begin at once, Chairman Kennedy said. It will be a twin screw, combination mail, passenger and cargo liner, with a displacement of 34,000 tons at low draft. It will have an overall length of 723 feet, a breadth of 92 feet, a depth to promenade deck of 75 feet, and a speed of about 22 knots an hour. It will contain accommodations for about 1,200 passengers and a crew of 630 and, Kennedy said, will be the safest liner afloat.

The Newport News Company will construct the vessel.

SENATOR CHARGES RAIL PROBE BLOCK

Bondholders Accused of Refusing Copies of Records.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 22.—(AP)—Senator Truman, Democrat, Missouri, declared today the Stedman bondholders committee, an organization representing creditors of the Missouri Pacific railroad, had failed to co-operate with the senate railroad finance committee.

Truman said the Stedman committee offered to open the files to his committee last Wednesday, but refused to let it have copies.

The senate committee has been investigating two proposals for reorganization of the Missouri Pacific system, which is the western arm of the $3,000,000,000 Van Sweringen railroad empire. One was put forward by the Stedman committee and the other was drawn up by an Allegheny corporation, which controls Missouri Pacific.

Many technical improvements for effortless control are included in Plymouth innovations for the new car year.

ROAD TO NEW TAXES LEFT OPEN BY F. D. R.

President Says It Is Not Known Whether They'll Be Needed.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 22.—(AP)—A statement by President Roosevelt left the way open today for new taxes.

Mr. Roosevelt said at his press conference that it had not been determined whether new levies would be necessary.

Earlier, he had forecast that the federal budget, out of kilter since 1930, would be balanced in the next fiscal year, which starts July 1, 1938. He had said he thought this could be accomplished without additional taxation.

This statement, however, was made prior to discussions in Washington about methods of financing the projected new farm program. Talk in farm circles recently has centered on the possibility of re-imposing some form of processing taxes.

As to the general tax structure, the President was asked today whether any modification is likely in the undistributed corporate profits and the capital gains taxes—levies on which private financial spokesmen have laid part of the blame for recent stock market downturns.

Mr. Roosevelt replied that this was a subject involved in the treasury's present survey looking toward a general overhaul of the revenue structure.

The results of the study, he said, will be given to congressional committees next month and final recommendations will be laid before the regular session in January.

HITLER IS HOST TO DUKE, WALLY

Dutchess Is Impressed by Der Fuehrer's Personality.

BERCHTESGADEN, Germany, Oct. 22.—(AP)—Chancellor Hitler, played host to the Duke and Duchess of Windsor today, his face wreathed in smiles.

The couple visited him for two hours in his country home in the climax of their 13-day tour of Germany.

Hitler, wearing a brown party uniform, awaited them on the steps leading to his home and showed them around the estate after a 20-minute talk with the former British sovereign and tea on the balcony.

Members of the entourage reported the Duchess was visibly impressed with Der Fuehrer's personality and he apparently indicated they became fast friends by giving her an affectionate farewell.

He took both of her hands in his saying a long good-bye, after which he stiffened to a rigid Nazi salute which the Duke returned.

COUNTY POLICE NAB 2 IN LIQUOR SEIZURE

County police yesterday confiscated two cars, more than 15 cases of whisky and arrested two white men.

Norman Thexton, of a Ponce de Leon avenue address, was arrested by Officers Burton Carroll and Woodrow Wilson in an automobile at Fowler and Alexander streets. The car was parked near two other automobiles as if to make a transfer, they reported.

In one of the other cars, they found R. H. Quillian, recently arrested by Carroll after a chase that began outside the city limits and proceeded into the heart of town. Thexton was charged with possessing whisky and violating the motor vehicle law and placed under $2,000 bond in Fulton tower. Quillian was charged with operating with improper license plates and placed under $500 bond.

Police were searching yesterday for a man who used a warrant to find out the bank with which J. R. Jackson, of 32 Vernon street, N. W., did business and then forged a check on him for $225.

W. G. Hillard, manager of Kay Jewelry Company, 3 Peachtree street, told police a man purchased a $225 diamond ring Thursday night and gave a check to which he signed the name of J. R. Jackson.

Further investigation by police led to the discovery of the real J. R. Jackson who said he had advertised for an auditor and that a man who answers the description of the fictitious J. R. Jackson had responded to the want ad. Jackson said during the course of the conversation he told the applicant the bank with which he did business.

COTTON RUSTLERS BATTLED IN TEXAS

Heavily Armed Men Patrol Border To Repulse Lint Marauders.

EL PASO, Texas, Oct. 22.—(AP)—The international boundary tonight was bristling with guns tonight as embattled Texas ranchers fought off cotton rustlers in a new version of the southwest's bloody rustlers' wars.

Paid riflemen and heavily armed officers patrol the Rio Grande border ranches as they did in the days of the cattle wars—but now they're guarding cotton fields.

Several cotton rustlers have been killed. At least two bloody gun battles have been fought within the past 10 days, but there have been no captures.

Battlefront of the cotton rustling racket—offspring of nearly defunct cattle and liquor smuggling operations—is the Fabens island area along the Rio Grande, 35 miles east of El Paso, and comprising 3,000 acres of rich cotton land which produces nearly three bales to the acre.

Sheriff's posse and federal immigration officers alone have found it almost impossible to patrol the twisting bottle neck of the Rio Grande there effectively. Quick shooting mercenaries of the ranchers have joined the officers.

Raiders steal across the border in groups of 30 or 40. Under the protecting muzzles of riflemen hidden in the surrounding sandhills across the border, they strip the fields of cotton bolls and fade back over the boundary.

SLAYER IS SENTENCED TO DIE NOVEMBER 19

Sentence of death in the electric chair yesterday was written out for Joe Black, convicted negro murderer of A. A. Parks, negro storekeeper, by Deputy Clerk Charles Hartfield in Fulton superior court.

Black was convicted and given the death penalty late Thursday night after his trial had run for two days before a courtroom packed to the walls with Atlanta negroes. Set for November 19. Motion for a new trial has been filed.

Parks was killed on Rockwell street several months ago.

Aga Khan, Moslem Head, Slapped in Soviet Paper

MOSCOW, Oct. 22.—(UP)—The Aga Khan, fabulously wealthy spiritual head of more than 100,000,000 Moslems and president of the League of Nations' assembly, was denounced by the Godless Society tonight as an "enemy of the Soviet people."

The writer, Yaroslavsky, charged the Aga Khan "obviously directed his efforts towards strengthening the attempts of imperialism to separate Azerbaijan from the Soviet union." Azerbaijan is a Soviet Socialist republic.

PRODUCERS PLAN COTTONSEED AID

Three-Point Program Adopted at Conference To Forestall Losses.

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., Oct. 22.—(AP)—A six-state conference of 100 national and southern leaders in cotton production, processing and by-products manufacturing adopted a three-point program here today designed to forestall what speakers described as a threatened loss of about $80,000,000 to southern cotton farmers through reduced revenues from sale of cottonseed.

The conference went on record as:

1. Demanding "in fairness and equality to the south," and for the prosperity of the nation at large, repeal of all laws discriminating against use of American-grown vegetable oils.
2. Approving the purchase by the federal government of cottonseed oil for conversion into food and feed for relief purposes and recommending a broadening of the policy to include purchases of refined oil.
3. Urging congress to "give adequate consideration" to cottonseed—treat it according to its relative value as a major production of the south—in any general legislative farm program devised for enactment.

COASTAL SHIPPING FREED BY TRUCE

8,000 Longshoremen Back at Work Pending Settlement.

By the Associated Press. Southeastern ports, tied up since last Saturday by a strike of more than 8,000 members of the International Longshoremen's Association, hummed with activity again yesterday.

Men went back to work under terms of a truce calling for continued negotiations over wages and hours with a November 5 deadline for a settlement and an understanding the workers would be paid the new scale during negotiations.

The truce applies only to coastwise shipping but representatives of the union said they were discussing terms with deep sea shippers in an effort to settle differences with them too.

A new strike of longshoremen in New York yesterday caused the Clyde-Mallory line to cancel today's sailing of the Shawnee for Jacksonville and Miami, and of the freighter Nedina for Galveston, Texas.

SEWER CLAIMS TWO

Massachusetts Town Workers Overcome by Gas.

CHELSEA, Mass., Oct. 22.—(AP)—A watch was kept tonight at open manholes over a sewer main running beneath the heart of the city in the faint hope that two men swept seaward might be alive in the dank six-foot pipe.

The pair climbed down a manhole to open a valve controlling an auxiliary flow of water, were overcome by underground gas and fell into the turbulent sewer.

The two lost, Walter Statz, 44, and Arthur F. Peterson, 30, were employees of the water department.

manded that Garr be sent to the electric chair.

While a quiet crowd estimated by Sheriff Barnes at 1,500 packed the tiny courtroom, Attorney General Meredith declared:

"Instead of the Garrs being afraid of Denhardt, the evidence shows that Denhardt was afraid of the Garrs."

Ridiculing the defense contention that Denhardt had "reached for his hip pocket" before any shots were fired, Meredith cried:

"Mr. Gilbert (State Senator Ralph Gilbert, of the defense) would play the devil if he ever passed a law outlawing hip pockets."

Regarding expert defense testimony that Garr was "temporarily insane" when he fired the shots that killed the 61-year-old Denhardt, the attorney general asserted:

"Self-Defense Denied. The killing was not done in self-defense, or because Roy Garr was crazy, but because he wanted to avenge the wrong he thought Denhardt had done his sister."

The pretty, 40-year-old Mrs. Taylor, who was engaged to Denhardt, was found shot to death last November 6.

The former lieutenant governor and adjutant general of Kentucky, who had been her companion all day, contended the widow committed suicide.

"The evidence shows," Meredith continued, "that the only time Denhardt came face to face with the Garrs he ran like the Devil to get away from them."

The shots that killed Denhardt here September 20, he said, were fired into his back.

Garr had told of encountering Denhardt in a restaurant at Eminence, Ky., several months ago. The general, he said, backed out the door "with his hand at his hip." Since that incident, he said, the brothers had carried guns.

Judge Marshall instructed the jury to find Roy guilty of first degree murder or of voluntary manslaughter if it convicted him.

defense argument, stressed Roy's love for his sister, Mrs. Taylor. Then he referred to testimony of national guard officers that Denhardt was "domineering" and "power-drunk" and "cruel and inhuman," and called him "a mad dog." "I say this man had a right to shoot a mad dog," Clark added.

Coleman Wright, opening for the commonwealth, urged the jury to "try this case according to the law and not on personalities," and asked that they find Roy guilty on the first degree murder charge. He laughed at the contention that Roy shot in self-defense, declaring all the bullets struck Denhardt in the back.

SALT POISONING ENTERS HAHN TRIAL

Cobbler's Food Contained Dose, Says Toxicologist.

CINCINNATI, Oct. 22.—(AP)—Trial of Mrs. Anna Marie Hahn on a charge that she poisoned 78-year-old Jacob Wagner for his money veered today to the story of how another old man died on a western excursion with the former German housemaid.

Backed by a court ruling that evidence of other deaths would be competent for purposes of showing a "mass poisoning" intent, the prosecution marshaled a parade of witnesses to the final illness of George Obendorfer, 87, Cincinnati cobbler, who died August 1, in Colorado Springs, Col.

Dr. Frances McConnell, toxicologist for the city of Denver, testified that Obendorfer's viscera contained poison and that a salt shaker found in his suitcase contained an identical poison.

Defense counsel, contented with routine cross-examination, placed in the record a blanket objection to all testimony not directly concerned with Wagner's death.

The government has based its campaign for re-election mainly on insistence on strengthening the royal Australian navy as the first line of defense. Lyons seeks to allocate a large share of the $55,000,000 defense appropriation to Fear of Nipponese Expansion Intrudes National Defense in Election Today.

SYDNEY, Australia, Oct. 22.—(AP)—Increased fear of Japanese expansion, a result of the Chinese-Japanese conflict, today made national defense a major issue in the general election for Australia's federal parliament, to be held tomorrow.

The government, headed by Prime Minister J. A. Lyons, has favored concentrating on naval defense. The labor opposition advocated stronger air forces. Informed political observers believed the government would win, but with a reduced majority.

For many years Australians have feared Japanese invasion. They have been proud of their "white Australia" policy of restricting immigration, but they have realized it kept population at a dangerous level and left wide open spaces to tempt the overcrowded Japanese.

Lately they have realized that modern warplanes could easily reach Australia from Japan if some of the East Indies were first conquered by the Japanese as setting stones.

The government has based its campaign for re-election mainly on insistence on strengthening the royal Australian navy as the first line of defense. Lyons seeks to allocate a large share of the $55,000,000 defense appropriation to

WHITLEY AWARDED 1ST ROAD CONTRACT BY RIVERS' REGIME

Other Successful Bidders
Announced; 2 Apparent
Lows Contain Errors.

The Whitley Contracting Company, of LaGrange, headed by a friend of former Governor Eugene Talmadge, received its first road building contract from the Rivers administration highway board yesterday.

The award, like the 13 others in the letting totaling approximately $827,000, was made "subject to further checking," and likewise to approval of the federal roads bureau.

The contract to John Whitley's company calls for 4,856 miles of concrete paving on the Fairmount-Cartersville highway at a cost of $170,988.46.

Highway officials recalled only one other bid submitted by Whitley since the Talmadge administration.

Errors Found.

Checking the bids after their opening early today, the board announced two of the apparent low proposals for other projects contained errors.

On this basis, S. B. Slack, of Decatur, was given the contract for a bridge on the Franklin-Roanoke highway at $40,612.50, instead of the Americus Engineering and Contracting Company, the apparent low.

Likewise, grading of 4,146 miles of the Americus-Cordale highway was contracted to H. G. Smith, of Fitzgerald, for $26,810.74, instead of the Coffee Construction Company, of Eastman.

Other awards were: To John Monaghan, of Pelham, for $103,809.58 surfacing 8.774 miles of the Leary-Newton road.
To Crumney & Crumney, of Rochelle, for $7,811, bridge over Spring Branch on the Midville-Wadley road.

To H. P. Little, of Commerce, for $19,319.50, bridge over Kiokee creek on the Augusta-Lincolnton highway.

To H. G. Smith, of Fitzgerald, for $24,833.08, bridge and 1.878 miles grading on Americus-Cordale highway.

To F. M. Jones, of Ways, for $29,557 grading 5.064 miles of Soperton-Metter highway.

Smith Bids Low.

To R. T. Smith, of Tallapoosa, for $37,580.63, grading 2.871 miles of the Franklin, Ga.-Roanoke, Ala., highway.

To M. R. Woodall Company, Atlanta, and Cornell-Young Company, Macon, for $76,714.81, concreting 1.96 miles of the Forsyth-Macon highway.

To John Monaghan for $80,448.18 surfacing 12.861 miles of the Mount Vernon-Soperton highway.

To Way Construction Company, Valdosta, for $34,955.25, four bridges on the Mount Vernon-Soperton highway.

To Sam E. Finley, of Atlanta, for $58,759.46, paving 5.639 miles of the Dallas-Villa Rica highway.

To Claussen-Lawrence Construction Company, Augusta, for $98,585.87, widening of Augusta-Thomson highway in Augusta.

Mary M'Coy, 105, Believed Oldest Atlanta Person

If Mary McCoy is quite contrary, she has reason to be, for she has encountered many hardships in her 105 years of life.

Mary was a girl on a Virginia plantation when the Mexican War was being fought. She was pickin' cotton, most likely, when the Gold Rush of '49 was going on.

When Lincoln was placed in office, Mary was "around 26 years aged," and she was the mother of a four-year-old daughter when Lee surrendered to Grant. As Sherman marched on Atlanta, Mary was still a slave in Virginia, working to win the "Wah Between the States"—for the south.

Today, Mary lives in Atlanta at 580 Ashby street.

In fact, she has been living here for many years, but it wasn't until yesterday that a friend suddenly said: "Maybe Mary's the oldest person here." The friend is still wondering, while no other applicants for the honor have come forward.

Mary said yesterday she gets her long life naturally. Her mother, she said, lived to be 110 years old. Besides living in Atlanta, Mary can boast of grandchildren and great-grandchildren. And one great-great-grandchild.

MEETING TO ORGANIZE COMMUNITY SINGING

A meeting will be held at 2 o'clock tomorrow at the Grant Park school auditorium, 750 DeKalb avenue, for the purpose of organizing a community singing center, it was announced yesterday by Mrs. James A. Bellflower, acting chairman of the committee planning the center.

Representatives from several near-by churches have already said they would attend, Mrs. Bellflower said. A special 15-minute program has been arranged for children, beginning at 2:30 o'clock. The center will feature no demonstration, the acting chairman said.

ELECTION IS CALLED.

CUSSETA, Ga., Oct. 22.—(P)—Mrs. E. B. Spivey, ordinary, has called a special election for November 15, in Chattahoochee county to fill a vacancy in the house of representatives caused by the recent death of Dr. Charles N. Howard.

'Amos' Learned His ABC's in School Opened Here by Miss Nina Hornady

Woman Whose Life Has Long Been Connected With Social and Cultural Fabric of City Celebrates Birthday But Keeps Age a Secret.

Miss Nina Hornady, in whose school, Amos, of the famous radio team of Amos 'n' Andy, received much of his training, celebrated her birthday yesterday at her home at 89 Linden street.

Amidst showers of gifts and innumerable callers throughout the day she steadfastly refused to tell just what birthday she was celebrating.

"It's a graveyard secret," she said. "My father always told me I forgot my age I'd never have to tell it—so I did."

One of the most beloved and outstanding women in the social and cultural fabric of Atlanta, Miss Nina was born in Americus, Ga. Later her family moved here where she attended private schools and graduated from Old Cox College in LaGrange. She taught in several schools in Atlanta, was assistant principal at Girls' High school and later she and her sister, Miss Annie Hornady, founded a school at their home on Linden avenue.

"Amos" Her Pupils.
Among pupils at the school was a boy whose name was Freeman Gosden. He later became Amos of the famous radio team Amos and Andy.

"He was a bright boy and had beautiful manners," said Miss Nina. "I had a good picture of him but someone liked it too much and just walked away with it."

With her snow-white hair, parted in the middle and brought down over her ears, she presented an unusual picture as she sat before the open fireplace in the home in which she has lived alone for a number of years. She held in her arms an old-fashioned china-headed doll her father gave her when she was only five years old.

Reminiscing, she recalled that her father had promised her if she could learn to "draw numbers," from one to ten, in a week's time,

Straying Son Saves Over-Time Parker

Straying of a 6-year-old son from his mother in a downtown department store proved sufficient excuse for Mrs. B. L. Franklin, of 674 Somerset terrace, N. E., to escape payment of a $3 fine on charges of over-time parking yesterday.

Mrs. Franklin pleaded guilty to the charge before Recorder A. W. Callaway, explaining it took her 30 minutes to locate her son who got lost in the department store. Recorder Callaway said the excuse was "reasonable and legal."

he would buy her a doll. "I learned them in one day," she said.

Preached in Atlanta.
Her father, Henry Carr Hornady, was a widely known Baptist minister of Atlanta. He preached the first sermon in Atlanta after the War Between the States and was pastor of the First Baptist church here for a number of years.

Miss Hornady's work with various clubs has been outstanding. The first concerted effort to bring about the annual celebration of the date of the landing of Oglethorpe and his colonists, February 12, 1733, under the name of "Georgia Day," was made by the Joseph Habersham Chapter of Atlanta in 1901, and with the co-operation of the state school commissioner soon resulted in its observance in public schools. Credit for those efforts is due to Miss Hornady, Georgia Day chairman of the chapter, and Mrs. W. L. Peel, then regent.

Having held many outstanding offices with various organizations she is now honorary national vice president of the Daughters of 1812. Speaking of how greatly things have changed she laughed and said that men's dress had changed as much as anything. They used to dress beautifully, but now "you look at one and you're astonished."

HARTSFIELD DISCUSSES UNEMPLOYMENT COUNT

Hartsfield is to appoint a citizens' committee soon to aid the postoffice in obtaining the voluntary registration of unemployed

Tickets Must Bear Police Chief's Name

Police tickets for traffic violations must bear the name of Chief of Police Hornsby in order to be legal, Recorder A. W. Callaway ruled yesterday. Walter Aycock, Atlanta attorney, who responded to 11 copies of charges served on him, pointed out that some of the copies contained the names of the city clerk and of former Mayor James L. Key. Six copies which did not contain the chief's name were not-prossed, while Aycock paid a fine of $15 on the other five tickets.

and partially unemployed persons in the city. Creath offered assistance in mapping work of the committee.

SPECIAL OFFICER FOR AREA FOUGHT

Hester Terms Police Work in Formwalt Section
a Good Job

The police department is doing a good job of cleaning up vice conditions in the Formwalt area and no special officer is needed, Councilman Cecil W. Hester, of the second ward, asserted last night.

Hester said he did not believe the police committee would authorize a private citizen to act with police powers in the community. "Chief Hornsby and Detective Superintendent J. A. McKibben will clean up the section all right," he said. "The reports of crime in the area are exaggerated."

A group of residents of the section have organized to fight crime conditions.

THE CURSE OF PROHIBITION

The Fulton county grand jury, after many weeks spent in a thorough investigation of crime and racketeering in Atlanta and the adjacent territory, recommends in special presentments that the state prohibition law be repealed.

"All crime is rooted in the illicit sale of liquor," holds the jury, urging that the "bone-dry" laws be wiped from the statute books and state control of the liquor traffic substituted.

The jury has listened to a long parade of witnesses who have recited the inside story of crime in this community. The origin of every form of crime has been traced to the bootlegging racket.

Georgia is discovering that the attempt to control appetite by law merely sets up a new structure of outlawry. Prohibition, national or state, creates a huge money stake to tempt the cupidity of reckless men and women whose fertile imaginations constantly devise new means to reap the harvest of crime.

The only way to end the growing plague of criminal rackets in Atlanta and Georgia is to take away the prize for criminal success. That prize is the money made out of the illicit traffic in liquor.

Good citizens everywhere stand for strict enforcement of the law. But prohibition has proven, beyond argument, that laws which go contrary to the age-old customs of man are unenforceable.

It is conceivable that repeal would not be best for some of the rural counties of the state. In counties where prohibition is workable, largely because their small population makes it impossible for criminals to operate, repeal would have no effect.

But it is convincingly evident that prohibition constitutes the greatest menace to life and decency in the cities. Every one of the larger cities of Georgia has learned the lesson emphasized in the stand of the Fulton grand jury.

The dry laws should be repealed—for the good, even, of those rural counties—for they inevitably are affected by crime conditions in the cities.

From these counties come the boys and girls to Atlanta, to Savannah, Augusta, Macon and other cities, and all too often fall into evil ways. The criminal elements of the cities, in turn, overflow from the urban centers and contaminate the rural counties themselves. Through the villages flows the stream of illicit liquor and on the country roads the hijacker turns his deadly menace against the whisky runner.

Today, with modern roads webbing the state, with fast automobile transportation, the country and city cannot stay aloof from each other. What injures one brings sorrow to the other and the evil that finds its roots in the bootlegging hideouts of the big city spreads its contaminating hand into the most remote rural communities.

Remove the prohibition law from the state statute books and there will no longer be any reason for bootlegging and its rich monetary stakes. Take away the illegal profits of the bootlegger and the racketeer, the lottery men, the organized gangs of criminal desperadoes, will be deprived of their capital.

Substitute intelligent and rigid state control of liquor, and there will again be a chance for officers of the law to stamp out the growing cancer of organized crime. Legalization of liquor will bring badly needed revenue to the state, but this is, after all, a minor consideration.

The great reason for dry law repeal, a reason before which all others fade into insignificance, is that it will take the financial sinews away from the forces of evil in the city and the state.

And it will make possible the upbuilding of a more temperate people through education, which is, after all, the only road that leads to true temperance.

This Fulton county grand jury, under the leadership of the solicitor general, has performed an outstanding service in breaking up the bug racket, which for several years has boldly looted the gullible people of the city.

It renders equally outstanding service in calling to the attention of the state the part which the prohibition law plays in crime conditions of all kinds.

In Pennsylvania a specialist prescribes lollipops for colds. It will be remembered that many an older cure, too, had a stick in it.

Rome wasn't built in a day. In fact, it took seven for a younger Mussolini to clean up his Hollywood education in the film business.

The new Caesars find the democratic nations less and less impressed by their bluster. You call your ball club the Giants, and what happens?

Chicago's hay fever champion is allergic to cats, flour, linoleum, maple trees, orris root, chickens, wool, silk and dandelions. However, man cannot live in a vacuum, which is a great pity.

GETTING TO THE ROOT

Congressman Emmett Owen, only Georgian on the house agricultural committee, has been summoned to Washington to help prepare the farm program to be submitted at the coming session.

Representative Owen is quoted as stating that the high tariff on farm machinery and other supplies the farmer has to buy is the key to the situation and, until the tariff is drastically reduced, "no lasting relief can be given the farmer."

The Georgian thus goes to the roots of the farm problem. Regardless of all proposals for government subsidies of the leading crops, proposals which are necessary to meet the immediate emergency, especially in cotton, the only permanent solution of the agricultural woes of the nation is, as Representative Owen says, removal of the tariff barriers.

When farmers in other lands can buy American made farm machinery for half the price the American farmer has to pay, it is beyond reason to expect American farm products to sell in world markets at prices which will show a profit to the producer. The iniquitous high tariff simply favors the foreign competitor of the American farmer and induces more extensive production of foreign grown crops. Thus the production of cotton in other countries has increased in recent years to the point where the world is practically independent today of American grown cotton. World consumption in 1936, outside of America, was 23,000,000 bales while world production, exclusive of America, was 19,500,000 bales. And consumption cannot be as great this year.

High tariffs handicap all American business, including the farm industry, by erecting a wall which keeps foreign made goods out of this country and thereby prevents would-be foreign purchasers of our products from creating a trade balance wherewith to buy.

If Representative Owen can succeed in his announced determination to insist on a drastic reduction in the tariff on the things the farmer has to buy, he will have contributed to the solution of the farm problem something immeasurably greater than all the temporary subsidies, bounties, doles or what not that can be paid out of the United States treasury. And that treasury is, literally, the collective pocket of all taxpayers, farmers included.

NORRIS HEADS SOUTHERN

Ernest E. Norris, from 1907 until 1917 a resident of Atlanta, has been elected president of the Southern Railway System, succeeding Fairfax Harrison, who becomes chairman of the board of that system. No president of the Southern has had a wider experience than has President Norris.

His rapid rise from a special agent in the transportation department of the system in Washington began in 1902, when he was 20 years old. Following his service in Washington, he served as trainmaster of the Norfolk and Danville division, as assistant superintendent of the Knoxville division, superintendent of the Coster division and of the Atlanta division.

During his residence in Atlanta he was active in all civic movements. From this city he went to Knoxville as general superintendent of the entire Southern system. For several years he served in Washington as assistant to the president, and following the death of another former Atlantan, the late Henry W. Miller, was named operating vice president.

He brings to the presidency of the Southern Railway System 35 years of intimate knowledge and personal contact relationship with the best business interests of the south.

A crusader wants all holidays to fall on Monday, thus prolonging the week end. Or two days for whoopee, and another to count the dead.

New subcellar lows have been daily occurrences on Wall Street. Under the circumstances, a smart operator is one who gets out on the ground floor.

NATION OF TEA DRINKERS

(From The Florida Times-Union.)
If America is becoming the nation of tea-drinkers indicated by figures given at a recent meeting of representatives of a large sales firm in Memphis, maybe there is some hope of the people of this country acquiring a few of the tea-table graces, principally the art of conversation, that have never been practiced in this part of the New World.

The United States, it was stated, ranks second only to her motherland, England, in the consumption of the beverage.

Every country has a favorite drink, over which people will dawdle away a few moments in conversation.

England has her tea and ale which made the taverns famous; Germany her beer and quiet beer gardens where the people may be seen in pleasant and unhurried conversation, to the complete mystification of the minds of American tourists. They simply cannot understand the frame of mind or the physical construction of human beings who will pause long enough to enjoy the art of conversation while partaking of the nation's favorite drink.

In one section of the United States, where the background is distinctly foreign, the people have always enjoyed a life devoted to drinking leisurely a beverage which, along with their conversation, is a masterpiece. The name of Louisiana and the most potable coffee in the world are synonymous. The drinkers quaff their coffee and enjoy pleasant conversation.

On the contrary, most Americans gulp their potions. It is true that there are drinks in this country which produce conversation, but the talk is characterized more by garrulity and incoherence than that of the English tea-tables, German beer gardens, and French cafes.

As hard as it is to admit, America's saloons and soda fountains do not compare favorably with the continental counterparts, when it comes to the matter of enjoying the lost art and social grace of conversation.

One must sip or quaff, not gulp, to be able to enjoy this mystic art of drinking.

Americans who will lend themselves to the spirit of sipping may find their moments as pleasantly spent as Samuel Johnson and his famous group of wits did in England, as they sat in their little quiet inn over tea-tables, and cheeses, which produced wisdom in conversation.

Behind Washington Headlines

By H. R. BAUKHAGE.

DUKE'S MENTOR WASHINGTON, Oct. 22.—The Duke of Windsor, erstwhile friend of the British workingman, may not be so popular with American labor and he is judged by the company he intends to keep when he tours the United States.

Charles E. Bedaux has communicated with Secretary Ickes concerning the Duke's itinerary here and it is reported that he will accompany the Duke and Duchess on their tour of inspection of housing projects in this country.

But labor has a grudge against Mr. Bedaux. It is this: He is the originator of a business efficiency system which labor leaders have investigated and condemned.

"The Bedaux system," said a report made by the AFL in 1935, "stripped of its pseudo-technical verbiage, is nothing more or less than a method for forcing the last ounce of effort out of the workers at the smallest possible cost in wages."

It is stated that attempts to introduce the system into British plants resulted in a number of strikes.

ITALIAN DISCONTENT The President has recently received Mussolini is getting a little sick in his own precincts. Whether or not the State Department accepts this report is sound it hasn't indicated, even privately. But outward developments seem to confirm it.

It is also reported that Great Britain realizes that Il Duce, not any too sure of his domestic situation, might be more inclined to indulge in a desperate coup and speak with "the last word of kings"—a phrase that used to be engraved on cannon.

The fact that, when the lights went out for an hour or so recently in Milan, they were turned on to reveal the town fairly well plastered with anti-Mussolini posters, is taken by some as much more than a symptom of what is happening, but isn't being reported in Italy.

JOKER IN CIO JOKE There is a little private joke going the rounds at CIO headquarters that may have a joker in it that isn't so funny.

The story is that the United States Steel Corporation is whispering that, when its agreement with the steel workers expires in February, it will offer a new contract including the check-off and the closed shop.

This, of course, would be comparable to having the Brussels conference offer Japan North China and Shanghai with the Philippines thrown in.

That, says CIO, is a joke. This is the joker: The same mysterious grapevine declares that, in return for this generous offer, the steel people will ask that the union break away completely from CIO and take with it as its head Philip Murray, chairman of the steel workers' organizing committee.

The CIO moguls are reported to be laughing their heads off at the idea—the idea that the organization which grew from 1,000 workers in 1936 to over half a million today would walk out on Mr. Lewis, or that Phil Murray, his right-hand man, would desert him.

However, though Murray denies having heard the story, he states that, if such a suggestion is made, it will be laid before the steel workers' convention which is to be held in Pittsburgh in December.

It is safe to say that CIO officials will be on hand to watch what happens if the proposals turn up at the Pittsburgh meeting.

FARM RELIEFS OPTIMISTIC Although the congressional clans have by no means gathered as yet, hints come from somewhere that make certain members of the Department of Agriculture optimistic over getting action on their farm relief program.

It is being confidently predicted that Marvin Jones, chairman of the house agriculture committee, will be seeing eye to eye with the secretary, or thereabouts, on farm legislation when he gets his boys together.

If a bill doesn't get through this session, say these optimists, it will be ready to shoot at the beginning of the next.

While it is known that "Cotton Ed" Smith, on the senate side, is vocally antagonistic to the government program, some of the insiders think that he can be brought around with certain concessions more easily than he sounds.

Hallowe'en's hobgoblins
Will find us hard to scare
This year, for we've been hearing
Of modern modes of warfare.

A Tip For The Duke of Windsor.
If the Duke of Windsor is coming to America to study housing conditions, as announced, he'll be compelled, in order to get a true picture of conditions, to buy or rent an auto trailer and spend a few weeks on the highways and in the trailer camps.

Bill Butler Told This One.
According to Bill Butler, a young married man, of Atlanta, failed to come home at all on a recent night.

When his perturbed young wife asked for an explanation, the man explained he been camping with the CCC all night.

And she wondered what business her husband had with the Civilian Conservation Corps.

Whereas the truth was he'd camped around a bridge table at the Capital City Club.

A Few Lines From Dave Ungar.
David Edward Ungar is one of Atlanta's better poets. He turns out smooth and polished verses dealing with all subjects under the sun.

But there is one topic he never resists. As soon as Dave sees a circus poster he has to take his rhyming pen in hand. This year he generously gave the column this:

LIZA GOES TO THE CIRCUS.
Chile, you mammy's feelin' fine,
Got mah clothes all on de line,
Circus comin'—Is I gwine?
Honey, hush!

Got a heap o' things to do.
All dem clothes to starch en' blue,
Den I got to iron, too—
Honey, hush!

Don't forget to milk dat cow;
I jest can't be pestered now;
Circus comin'—feed dat sow—
Honey, hush!

Honey, hush, an' quit you cryin'—
Take dem clothes in off de line;
Circus comin'—COSE YOU'S GWINE!
Honey, hush!

—DAVID EDWARD UNGAR.

Grabbing The Elusive Idea.
A well-known Atlanta man was visiting at Yellowstone Park. At dinner in the hotel, he noticed his neighbor at the table turned over the menu and began to sketch on the back.

The waiter brought the soup, the entree, the salad, the roast and the desert. But the man kept on sketching and paid no attention to the food.

Finally the Atlantan's curiosity prevailed and he touched the industrious pencil wielder on the arm.

"Pardon me," he said, "but I'm curious to know why you neglect your food and what it is you're doing that so engrosses your attention."

The stranger grinned.

"I'm," he said, giving the name of a nationally known cartoonist. "The hardest part of my job is getting ideas and when one comes I have to catch it, before it

FAIR ENOUGH

By WESTBROOK PEGLER.

PERSONAL PROVIDENCE R. I., Reprisal Oct. 22.—It may be hard to believe, but Robert Quinn, governor of Rhode Island, a state of the American union, has called out the national guard to execute his personal reprisal against the publisher of a paper which called him a swear-word liar in print.

The soldiers, 300 strong at first, but reduced to about 50 at this writing, are maintaining nominal martial law in the vicinity of the Narragansett race track, operated by a cunning and audacious little promoter from Massachusetts named Walter O'Hara, who prospered so highly in the horse business that he jumped into Rhode Island politics and bought a newspaper with which to advance his political program.

Mr. O'Hara apparently wants to become the political boss of the state, which, though small, is very rich. He easily captured the municipal administration of Pawtucket, where the horse park lies.

Knowing this, Governor Quinn was afraid the local police might attack the state police if he moved them in to close the race track in retaliation for the published insult. But he was determined to punish O'Hara, whom he described in a radio address as "an unscrupulous and ruthless individual," so he invoked the authority of his office to declare martial law and send in the soldiers. He says he figures that if he keeps the track closed until November 11, the last day of the scheduled season, O'Hara will be out so much money that he will lose his paper and possibly control of the track as well.

Five Charges There are five charges in the case against O'Hara. They are: 1. Accuse him of embezzlement, misuse of horsemen's funds, interference with the racing authorities, obstruction of the auditors and "blasphemous and libelous attacks upon the Governor." The last item is the one which brings up the issue of the press and Governor Quinn frankly says that though his political career be ruined he will not permit the track to operate as long as it is controlled by the man who called him a swearword liar.

Of course, the personal and political enmity amounts to more than just that. The Governor also says he has received threats against his children from persons whom he associates with the race track; he says two justices of the state supreme court are partial to the horse park faction, and he insists that O'Hara's paper is of such a character as to deserve no sympathy from those who cherish the freedom of the printed word.

And it is, in very truth, an unconventional paper, a throwback to the days of personal journalism when the editor kept a slaver in the half-open drawer of his desk and governors who took offense went down to the shop and did their shelling in person, scorning the services of the profession, and journalists priding themselves on their ethics and taste might regret an occurrence which, for the moment, placed them on the same side of the barricade with Mr. O'Hara.

Quinn Not Governor Quinn. A Dictator as a successor, need not alarm as Huey P. Long, for he is distinctly not the type. He makes a very bad speech, he lacks Huey's shocking effrontery and ingenuity in argument, he is not given to showmanly or swaggering, and his premeditated bombast is not the simple fact that a very exasperating enemy has driven him to a foolish act. His racing commission, which has authority over the horse park, sustained the charges against O'Hara and rescinded his license, but on O'Hara's appeal the state supreme court reversed this action.

Technically without going into the merits of the accusations, the law requires, however, that the track operators must file with the commission 10 days before the start of a meeting the names of the racing officials for that meet and this O'Hara failed to do, because the supreme court decision on the original suspension was not delivered until the deadline had passed.

So, technically, that is the reason for closing of the track by force of arms, although the Governor admits that O'Hara himself is the real objection, and the complaint against one of his offenses a published affront to him.

Horse racing was legalized in Rhode Island in 1934 for the first time in the history of one of the oldest states and has been a source of virulent political infection.

Not only have the usual following of underworld talent flocked into Rhode Island, but an enterprise always previously regarded as a vice and tolerated only as a source of necessary public revenue has acquired so much money and such an arrogant feeling of political muscle that it now threatens to subdue all decency and convert the little state into a northern Miami, with horse rooms and gambling houses on every highway and more or less candid grafters in many public offices.

Another Letter From a Bald Headed Dad To His Red-Headed Daughter

By ROBERT QUILLEN.

My Dear Louise:
Sometimes I have an uneasy feeling that any effort to shape a youngster's life is much like controlling steam. You can control it for a while, if you don't let the pressure get too great, but you never know where it will be or what form it will take when it escapes.

I couldn't control your life, even if I wished to do it. The most I can hope for is that you will learn to control it yourself.

That sounds easy, but I assure you it is neither easy nor commonly done. The ordinary person makes little or no effort to control life, but permits it to control him. He is a marionette on a string.

How many people of your acquaintance are living as they prefer to live and doing the thing they really wish to do?

The obvious answer is that few are rich enough to do as they please; but want of money isn't the right excuse, for the well-to-do are saddled and ridden by life as the poorest are.

Do you suppose that Uncle Henry, who is rich enough in all conscience, made a deliberate decision to spend the latter half of his life sitting in a dingy office keeping account of loans, watching nickels, wearing queer clothes, denying himself all pleasures? He may prefer living that way now, for long habit has made it seem right and he isn't aware of missing anything. But you know he didn't choose to live that way. He just drifted into it.

Most of us do the same thing. We take the way that seems easiest at the time, and then let circumstance push us along from one thing to another, and the first thing we know we are trapped in a rut and there we stick all our days because we can't climb out without a lot of trouble to ourselves and others.

I suppose you can't avoid getting in a rut. Life would be rather lonely if you couldn't take root somewhere and feel secure among friends. And of course your duty to others and consideration for them will tie you down in the end.

But you can at least choose each path you follow, observing carefully where it leads, and pick the habits you desire as permanent equipment. You can choose the interests you really care about, and develop the abilities you really desire, and select the way of life you really enjoy.

If you don't make deliberate selection, life will make it for you without asking your consent, and you may wind up as a dissatisfied housekeeper, bridge player and movie fan, with a secret and desperate longing to explore buried cities with a mate who thinks it fun.

THIS MORNING

By JOHN TEMPLE GRAVES II.

"O, wad some power the giftie gie us
To see ourselves as others see us!"

But national magazines wishing to show up southern cities would do better with writers willing to sacrifice a little of their cleverness and ill will to making their pictures recognizable. Few who know Nashville, for example, will recognize it in the superficial, vague and self-consciously clever piece England's Ford Madox Ford has done about it in the current number of Vogue under title "Take Me Back to Tennessee." All Mr. Ford could find really to praise in Nashville was the foliage and the Vanderbilt "Fugitives." He tells with gusto of a "statue to a horse-shield" erected in one of the city's parks, but so incoherently that it is not possible for an outsider to understand what he is talking about. He does succeed, however, in arousing a little reader interest in the statue. We, for one, would like to know if there really was a statue to John Murrell and if Murrell really was the desperado highwayman, horse thief and leader of outlaws he is made out to be in the Dictionary of American Biography.

Although Mr. Ford seemed to find neither dignity nor culture in the "Athens of the South," there is too much of both there, we believe, for the people of the city to take up arms against so shallow, insincere and trifling an article. Partial as we are to British writers, we suspect that some of them need to know what they are talking about now before doing a book or article on things American. Americans are coming to understand themselves well enough to recognize a total want of understanding—even if it comes with a broad "A."

The funny thing is that with all his fault-finding, insinuation and snobbery, Mr. Ford overlooked the best target in all Nashville for artistic scorn. We refer, of course, to the cupola on top of the state house.

The other night Elizabeth Rethberg and Ezio Pinza sang in our town. Rethberg, the great Teutonic soprano, and Pinza, the colorful Latin basso. Each cast a spell, but the spell of each was so different from and antithetical to the other that the audience had trouble changing spells. After Rethberg had been singing in her blonde and soulful way and the listeners were entranced, the coming of Pinza was something of an interruption, almost an irritation.

Similarly, when Pinza had won the audience with his robust and magnificent notes and his warm Italian gestures, the return of Rethberg was a pale moon, an anti-climax. And so on, in such a circle of spell and counter-spell that one could picture the unsatisfactory psychology that must have resulted when Il Duce and Der Fuhrer appeared together in Germany and suspect that the Rome-Berlin axis will never really work.

There is another great singer, home.

Horse Railway.

What is called the first American railroad was opened at Quincy, Mass., in 1826. Actually a tramway, with horses pulling eight-wheeled carts over iron rails laid upon granite ties, it was used to haul marble for Bunker Hill monument from quarries to a Neponset river pier three miles away.

Around the Globe.

In September, 1522, the 83-ton Victoria arrived at Seville, completing the first circumnavigation of the globe. Ferdinand Magellan, under whose command the expedition started, was dead; Captain Sebastian El Cano brought the ship home.

There is another great singer, home.

There is another great singer, home.

There is another great singer, home.

There is another great singer, home.

ROADSIDE PARKS PLANNED BY STATE

Scores To Be Provided on Highways; Plan Proved Popular in Texas.

Georgia's highways will be dotted with scores of roadside parks next summer under a program being adopted jointly by the State Highway Board and the Department of Natural Resources, it was revealed yesterday.

The small parks, established especially for motorists who desire to serve their own lunches or otherwise rest while touring will be maintained by the parks division of the resources department.

Director Charles Elliott, of the parks division said he and Chairman W. L. Miller of the highway board have worked out a plan whereby the highway department will provide the short roadways necessary for each park while the parks division will set up tables and benches and where possible also will equip the parks with stone stoves so that those who desire to do so may heat their meals.

Popular in Texas. "The roadside park plan was inaugurated in Texas several years ago and is proving very popular with tourists," Director Elliott explained. "They cost very little to set up and little or nothing to maintain."

Chairman Miller said that he believed a gravel siding would be all that is necessary for each park, although if it is found that a better grade of siding is needed it will be provided by the highway department.

"On traveling to and from Atlanta from my home at Lakeland I have often wanted to pull off the road, rest a bit and maybe have lunch," the chairman said. "But there have been no places. We plan to put these parks along the main highways a number of miles apart and we believe they will provide some badly needed resting places."

CONQUEST

By GERTRUDE GELBIN

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE.

When all other diplomatic efforts fail, Polish statesmen send Marie Walewska to plead for Napoleon's support of Poland. Marie and Napoleon fall deeply in love. She leaves her husband to join Napoleon for an idyllic winter. With the arrival of spring, Napoleon sets out on his Austrian campaign. Austria conquers Marie's native land, Vienna. Marie is radiantly happy in the discovery that they are to have a child. However, before she can tell him this, he announces he will marry Princess Marie Louise in order to found a dynasty. Marie pleads against this course, warning him that his ambition will lead him to disaster. He is adamant, and she leaves him forever without telling him of their expected child. NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

INSTALLMENT VII.

At last, late one afternoon, a ship sailed into the harbor with a woman and child reported on board. "It is my son, coming to me at last!" Napoleon cried. He seized his horse and rode to the quay. The boat docked and a woman and boy disembarked. Napoleon rushed to meet them, then stopped short, the joy of expectancy dying in his eyes.

It was not the Empress and his son. It was Marie Walewska with some child he had never seen. She approached him timidly. "You are disappointed, Sir?" she said at length.

"No, no, Marie—" he assured her hastily. "I—" his voice faltered. "I was expecting my son."

"I have brought your son," she whispered and beckoned to the child. "Your son—and mine."

Napoleon stared at the boy in amazed silence. Then, with a quick gesture, he picked him up and held him close. "Child of my heart," he whispered and looked over the boy's head into Marie's tear-filled eyes.

Back in Napoleon's humble cottage dinner was shared in oppressive restraint. Marie ate silently, her heart torn as she sat opposite the man to whom she had once been heaven and earth, and who looked now upon her from behind a brooding mask. The meal over, at last, she begged leave to put her child to bed.

In their room she undressed him quietly, answering his childish questions with infinite tenderness. "Your prayers, dear," she admonished at last.

The boy knelt beside her. "Our father who art in heaven and in whose keeping I entrust my heart—bless my mother and bless my father whom I have never seen. Help him to be good and guard him from evil and bring him peace. And let me grow up worthy of him. Amen." He clambored into his bed.

She kissed him good-night, blew out the candle and turned toward the door. Her hand flew to her heart. Napoleon's figure stood silhouetted against the doorway. He beckoned and she, in obedience, crossed to him shyly. He lifted her hand to his lips, then motioned toward the open doorway leading to his room across the hall.

Inside his room they faced each other, their eyes meeting for a brief instant. With intense longing, he took her in his arms and kissed her. The dam of pent-up emotions broke at the contact and Marie, shaken by sobs, kissed him rapturously.

"I've waited for this moment—so long—"

He led her to a divan and gently placed her on it. "Why did you never tell me of our son?" he asked wonderingly.

"I tried to," she whispered. "At Shoenbrunn."

"You were right," he said at last. "My marriage was fatal to me. And you have suffered through it. That is the life I have given you."

She put her fingers against his lips to hush him. "I love you, Napoleon Bonaparte! That is the life you have given me."

A sharp gust of wind banged closed the shutters and a burst of thunder echoed into the room. "A storm is coming up," he said.

"I shall love the storms of Elba," she smiled, "and the people—and the songs—and the sea—and the funny little village. I'm going to take a house here. A little house. Will you come up and dine with me every day?"

"I'll come to fetch you," he murmured.

"Oh it's going to be so good to be near you," she cried happily. "With only you and your mother and Alexander."

"That other world will begrudge me even this," he answered sadly. "That other world doesn't know I'm here," she laughed. "Nobody does."

He sat upright, his tenderness giving way to intense thought. "Nobody?" he echoed.

"Not a soul," she assured him. "Marie!" he leaped to his feet. "This is a godsend!" He made for his desk on which was spread a map of Europe. "You are the one to help me," he cried.

"Help you?" she asked in bewilderment. "How?"

"I need a messenger," he answered, tense with excitement. "I must get word to Murat in Naples. There is no one I can depend on."

"You're going back!" The words rushed from her to rebound and crush her as she realized his purpose.

He took her hand. "They think I will stay here and rot. They think I will rot on this island. I hear Talleyrand wants to send me to St. Helena—a sunburnt rock in the middle of the sea—a grave!"

Well, I'm not for a grave in St. Helena or in Elba. I am for France. My eyes burned wildly into hers. "It was the cause of France's suffering. I shall be her cure! Schoenbrunn was my blunder. But—" his voice rose triumphantly—"Elba is theirs!"

"They will leave you in peace here if you let them," she pleaded earnestly. "Listen to me, my dear. I've just come from the continent. You have fought too many years. Too many hopes have died. France is tired—let her rest!"

He shook his head. "What would you have me do?" he demanded. "Shall I bend my head and let them go on punishing me forever?"

"Let the good you have done praise you forever," she begged. "Let the wrong be forgotten. Your star has led you to a garden—not to a camp."

"Peace comes so soon with death," he answered. "But death is contemptible. I have faced it a thousand times. It is life that must be faced. I must go back. Marie! Believe in me! This time I shall not fail."

Marie looked at him. On her face was lined the pain of the woman who knows no will except that of the man she loves.

"You are the sea," she said slowly. "And I must drown in it. Give me the message."

He kissed her gratefully. With feverish haste, he turned to ring for the servant who must pack Marie's things—who must summon to him D'Ornano and his aides de camp.

"You must wait until the storm is over," he urged when at last Marie was ready to bid him farewell.

She shook her head. "Please don't come to the ship with me," she begged. She nodded. A servant hurried by with Alexander in his arms. Napoleon bent to kiss the sleeping child. He then turned to Marie. She looked into his eyes as if to fix his face in her memory for the years to come. They met in their last embrace, their last kiss. With a stifled cry, she broke from him and rushed to her carriage.

Napoleon re-entered his room to meet his aides who were awaiting him. He crossed to his desk and looked down at the open map, his hand reaching for his calipers. A burst of thunder and a flash of lightning cut into the room. A sudden vision of Marie, sailing through the storm, blotted out his purpose. The calipers fell from his hand; they slid across the surface of the map and came to a stop at Waterloo.

Out at sea, the ship tossed in the storm. Marie and Alexander stood at the bow, their eyes strained toward the fast receding shore.

"Can you see him, mother?" asked the child.

She leaned forward as if to reach out to Elba which held all her heart desired of life.

"The rain and my tears are shutting him out," she whispered. "Forever."

THE END.

UNCLE RAY'S Corner

A LITTLE SATURDAY TALK.

"Does it reach the sky?" That question was asked by a four-year-old boy named "Pat" who stood beside me outside the Empire State building. We had been looking toward the top of the world's tallest building, and it did, indeed, seem a long way to look.

The Empire State building has a height of about 1,250 feet, but we could not say that it reaches the sky. The fact is that "the sky" is not any special thing. It is a vast space which stretches out in all directions from the earth. It is far above our continent and at the same time it is far above Australia on the opposite side of the earth.

In ancient times, people used to think the sky was a kind of roof over a flat earth. The moon, planets and stars seemed to be lights which studded the sky, or which for some strange reason moved across it. Even the Egyptians, who knew ever so much about things, seem to have believed the sky was roof-like.

Scientists have proved that the sky goes on and on. The clouds we all can see floating through it may be only a few miles from the surface of the earth, but the planets are millions of miles away. The true stars are trillions and quadrillions of miles from us. No scientist has ever found "the end" of the sky, and there really may be no end to it.

On Monday I am going to have a little surprise for you. Once or twice in past weeks I have mentioned travels which I was planning to make in the early future. In our story Monday we shall have the first of a long series about my travels "across land and sea." The first one will be a letter telling about my first day crossing the Atlantic.

How far my travels will take me I cannot say at this time. My route will depend a good deal on whether there is war or peace in certain countries. I want to travel only in countries which are at peace.

I can see no good reason to risk having a bomb dropped on one's self by going into a country where there is warfare. It is my hope to keep on writing stories for a long time to come. If you should hear of my being in a country which is at war, you will know that the fighting started after I got there.

While I am away, my assistants will take care of letters which come to me asking for leaflets and so on. My helpers do their work with great care, and I do feel sure you will obtain any leaflet for which you inclose a self-addressed, stamped envelope.

ON ITS GREAT NEW LINE OF CARS FOR 1938

The new Chevrolets, now on display, are the most beautiful and desirable Chevrolets ever built; and again, as for twenty-seven years, the Chevrolet trade-mark is The Symbol of Savings

General Motors takes special pride and pleasure in inviting the attention of the motor car buying public to the new series of Chevrolet motor cars for 1938.

Because we believe it will be apparent to everyone who sees these new cars that the builders of Chevrolet have surpassed all their previous accomplishments in producing motor cars that are excellent to own and economical to run.

For twenty-seven years, Chevrolet has specialized in lifting motoring standards up while keeping motoring costs down. For twenty-seven years, the Chevrolet trade-mark has been the symbol of savings. All of which is emphatically true again for 1938, because Chevrolet has made low cost mean more in terms of quality this year than ever before in its history.

You will find, when you examine the new 1938 Chevrolets, that they are bigger-looking, more substantial-looking, more massive-looking—with poise and distinction ordinarily associated only with luxury cars.

You will find that they are much more beautiful both in the Modern-Mode Styling of their new All-Silent, All-Steel Bodies and in the tasteful appointments of their new Art-Color Interiors.

You will find that they have that full range of quality features, including Perfected Hydraulic Brakes, Knee-Action* with Shockproof Steering, and Fisher No Draft Ventilation, which distinguishes Chevrolet as the modern car of low price.

And you will also find that the new Chevrolets fulfill all Chevrolet traditions of economy, which means that they are not only economical to buy, but also extremely economical to operate and maintain.

We of General Motors are proud to share sponsorship of motor cars so truly outstanding in beauty, in quality and in value.

We cordially invite you to inspect the new Chevrolets at your nearest Chevrolet dealer's showroom, today or at your earliest convenience.

Club.

"Keep your husband and children home with a well-planned garden," Mrs. Fletcher Pearson Crown, noted garden lecturer, told Atlanta women yesterday as the sixth annual Constitution garden school came to a close at the Atlanta Woman's Club.

carefully thought-out design is necessary before any garden is planted, Mrs. Crown said husbands can be kept home "if they have some out-door game to play."

Design Game Spots.
She advised all women to design outdoor game spots as they plan for their gardens. She suggested badminton courts, croquet courts and horseshoe pitching courts.

Mrs. Crown was introduced to the hundreds present by Mrs. Alva G. Maxwell, president of the Atlanta Woman's Club, who was hostess for the day. Mrs. Maxwell was presented by John K. Ottley Jr., of The Constitution.

Grand prize for attendance was awarded the Grant Park Garden Club, of which Mrs. C. W. Heery is president, while the trophy for the day went to the St. Charles Garden Club. The Grant Park Club won the award for attendance while the Rosemary Garden Club, of which Mrs. S. L. Landers is president, was first Wednesday, the opening day of the annual fall garden school.

Style Show Staged.
Proceeding Mrs. Crown's lecture, which was illustrated with colored slides, Sears, Roebuck & Company presented a style show for everybody from the kiddies to the mature woman.

Mrs. Crown told the amateur gardeners that by designing the garden for the home a great deal more can be done with the space available. She pointed out that gardeners are too prone to plant here and there around the house without regard to the effect. "Most gardens are overcrowded," she said.

4 INJURED IN CRASH ON LITHONIA ROAD

Cars Collide Head-On; Unidentified Woman Hit by Auto, Taken to Grady.

Four people were injured in a head-on collision three miles out of Atlanta on the Lithonia road last night and another unidentified woman was unconscious at Grady hospital after being struck by an automobile at Washington and Richardson streets, police reported.

J. W. Clarke, 63, of Ensley, Ala., who was driving one of the cars in the Lithonia road crash, received lacerations and a possible fractured leg. His son, Harold Clarke, who was riding with him, escaped injury.

In the other car were Richard Corley, 26, and C. F. Chupp, 28, both of Lithonia, who received severe lacerations. A 22-year-old unidentified girl riding with them was injured internally. All were treated at Emory University hospital.

An unidentified woman, about 60 years old, who was struck by a car driven by Mrs. Adrian Ellison, 29, of 516 Lee street, was admitted to Grady hospital with internal injuries and a fractured skull. Mrs. Ellison, who brought the injured woman to the hospital, said the victim stepped in front of her automobile and that the accident was unavoidable. Police were investigating the accident.

GAMBLERS CENTER OF KIDNAP PROBE

Ross Investigation Veers to Underworld; Agents Tracing Bill.

CHICAGO, Oct. 22.—(AP)—Investigation of the kidnapping of Charles S. Ross veered into the underworld today.

The new turn indicated officials were convinced the abduction of the retired manufacturer and the collection of a $50,000 ransom were engineered by Chicago hoodlums.

The latest theory was that gamblers, harassed by a long police campaign, might have resorted to snatching when their revenue was cut off by a series of raids.

Discovery of a ransom bill here supported the premise that Chicago racketeers were responsible for the crime.

Federal agents, concentrated upon the tedious task of tracing that $10 note in the hope it had placed them on the trail of the kidnapers. The bill was turned over to FBI agents yesterday by Mrs. Clara Ludwig, of suburban Blue Island. She received it from a night room at Miss Florence Giannino, a roomer in her home, who obtained it the same night from William Wernecke, an insurance collector who cashed a check for her.

By DR. WILLIAM BRADY.

A THOUSAND NUTS ON A DESERT ISLAND.

The other day I offered to wager 25 to 1 in each of a thousand cases that a thousand persons subject to habitual or chronic constipation and addicted to some special diet, enema or aperient medicine, will no longer require such "aid" to bowel action after three months of absolute deprivation of access to such "aids."

No one has offered to accept the wager. I thought it would be fairly safe to make such a wager or to offer to do so. Not that I yearn to see a lot of wretched mortals slowly perishing with auto-intoxication or any such fright, if wholly imaginary, fate. But I know the great wise-acre public in Yankeland and I am confident I could get sufficient capital to underwrite the project if a few adventurers should volunteer to serve as the guinea pigs for the experiment.

The conditions would not be so frightful as the thought of a thousand nuts on a desert island might suggest. Remember, they are to have everything they could have in their ordinary environment except their favorite physic. From subjective and objective experience I know that even the average badly educated layman can stand the strain of five days of worry or anxiety—that is the length of time usually required for readjustment of the normal rhythm after interference has ceased—and we'd cancel the bets on the few who would go quite batty under the strain. We must remember that the thousand guinea pigs would necessarily be a bit weak in the head in order to qualify for the trip to the island, for after all a person of sound mind can hardly permit himself to become addicted to physic. No getting around the fact that the lower you go in the scale of intelligence the more fixed the notion that the bowels need constant watching and daily "regulation."

Booklet No. 25 in the Little Lessons series, "The Constipation Habit," which sets you back a 10-cent coin and a stamped envelope bearing your address, suggests several substitutes for physic, things which favor natural or normal functioning of the bowel and help to support the addict through the first five days after he swears off physic. Perhaps the most important thing of the kind is an optimal or more than sufficient daily intake of vitamins to supplement the ordinary diet. This is rather beneficial for anyone who subsists on the ordinary diet of more or less refined foods; it is particularly helpful for those who are subject to constipation or digestive weakness. So I'd try to hedge on my bet by advising the thousand guinea pigs to start taking generous rations of vitamins B, G and D a few weeks before leaving for the island and to continue taking plenty of B, D and G while doing their stretch. This, I think, would give them the intestinal vigor they need to overcome their weakness.

MY DAY

By Eleanor Roosevelt

WASHINGTON, Thursday.—The rainstorm in which we left New York yesterday morning seemed to be prevalent throughout the state. Judging by the papers this morning, it was fairly universal all through the east. The south reported heavy rains and damage to crops, just as New York city reported damage to streets and windows.

Our day on the train was fairly uneventful. Attorney General Bennett, of New York state, came into our drawing room just before we reached Albany for a little chat, but most of the day we worked. I only wish I could write longhand as successfully in a swaying train as Mrs. Scheider can type. I suppose I should really practice my typing even more assiduously, but it is still slower for me than writing longhand. I only type when sheer necessity compels me to tap on those little keys.

Speaking in Erie, Pa., last evening was interesting, for, at the end of the talk, a number of questions were sent up which showed an interest in education and, as usual, great interest in the question of peace.

One woman came up to me afterwards and asked if she might ask a "fanatical" question. She then inquired whether or not, in our trips through the country, we were able to gauge the general sentiment of the people on the question of going to war.

I told her that one of the questions most frequently asked by back-platform audiences was: "Mr. President, can you keep us out of war?" This indicated to me a very widespread interest, for, as a rule, people only ask questions about such things as are uppermost in their minds—the cost of living, the possible price for the particular agricultural product which is grown in their neighborhood, the public works going on in their state, or some specific project which frequently touches their daily lives.

Many people who read this morning of Felix Warburg's death, found themselves thinking of some occasion on which they served with him on a committee or a board, either for business or philanthropic purposes. He was active in many things which affected the public welfare and his passing will be felt, not only by those who were close to him in his circle of family and friends, but by the community in which he lived.

We are now on our way to Washington. It warmed by heart when the porter came in to bring us a table and said: "How is Miss Anna? She once did me a great favor." It is a rather nice southern custom which preserves the "Miss" long after you have married and have children of your own. Is there anything more pleasant than to find that someone you love, who has stepped out of her usual environment for a time at least, is not forgotten?

I am watching with interest Sir Hubert Wilkins' search for the Russian fliers, whom he still hopes to find marooned in the Arctic. So much faith and persistence deserves some reward and I hope they will be found alive.

Mrs. Henry Morgenthau Jr. met me on my arrival in Washington so that I could have a chance to see her new house before I settled down to the usual round of visitors this afternoon.

DEAR MISS CHATFIELD:

For two years I nursed a sick husband and cared for two little children on the side, which was no small task; but I believe I was more contented then than I am now since my husband is well again. He is much more interested in other people and other places than in his home and family. Sometimes I suggest that he take me to the movies instead of going alone and the way he rages makes me wish I hadn't suggested it. Now Miss Chatfield, I have been a good wife to him and I don't deserve this disappointment. Can you give me some helpful hints as to how I may stop him and hold him before it is too late?

A. S.

ANSWER:

Friend, isn't it possible that in the two years you devoted to nursing the sick husband and the two babies you went stale, lost your zip and forgot how to have any fun? This would be a perfectly natural outcome of a long stretch of staying at home, on the job twenty-four hours a day, with no thought beyond bottles of milk and medicine.

Alas! If there is one thing required of a wife these days it is to be a quick change artist and you will have to adopt this role if you are to keep up with a selfish man who lies in bed for two years while you take a million steps for him and then gets up to step out leaving you at home. It's a cinch he's not going to consider you unless you are contributing to the sum total of his comfort and pleasure.

The autumn is here with its call for new clothes. Buy yourself some becoming togethery; first to the fashion magazines to find out what is in vogue and within your means. Look after your hair and nails, select a suitable shade of rouge and lipstick. Apply them sparingly and give the old boy a thrill. You will be amazed at what these relatively unimportant matters of beautification will do for your spirit. Actually, they have a spark in your eye and a spring in your step.

Plan some entertainment at home in the evening; invite friends in occasionally; and be sure they are people whom your husband will enjoy. The extra work and the expense of simple entertaining is a good investment for the wife of a man who leaves home to find companionship. It takes away his excuse for going and it gives him a sense of pride in his home that is good for a roving husband.

Every conscientious woman who is disappointed at the turn her marriage takes tries to comfort herself with the statement that she's been on her job day and night, run her home well and been dutiful as wife and mother. May she be so all the time! But she should know that she is not enough if she has failed to show herself a good playmate to the husband who is to the end a little boy and must have his games and somebody to play with them.

In final analysis, there is no comfort for her if the husband gets away and if his sense of obligation and fair play won't hold him she has to resort to strategy. Funny, isn't it, that wives are perfectly willing to lay themselves out on the altar of home work: cooking, sewing, washing dishes and washing clothes, yet when it comes to leisure time, if any, they aren't willing to go to the last and most important mile—keeping abreast with husbands in their interests and pleasures.

Prominent Visitors Add Interest To Sadler-O'Day Prenuptial Fetes

Among the prominent visitors who have arrived in the city to attend the marriage of Miss Ida Moore Sadler, to Daniel O'Day, of Rye, N. Y., which will be a fashionable event taking place at 4:30 o'clock this afternoon at the First Presbyterian church, are the groom-elect's mother, Mrs. Caroline O'Day, of Washington, D. C., and Rye, N. Y.; his sister, Miss Elia O'Day, of Rye; his uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Wideman Lee, his aunt, Mrs. Victor Ridder, and her daughters, Misses Ruth and Kathleen Boyd, Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Boyd, all of New York; Mr. and Mrs. Robert Young, the bride-elect's uncle and aunt; Judge George Cann, and Mr. and Mrs. Charlton Theus, all of Savannah, and Mrs. Laurence Dodsworth, of Charlotte, N. C., aunt of the bride-to-be; James H. Snowden, of Rosemont, Pa.; C. Pardee Foulke, of Whittemar, Pa.; Mr. and Mrs. Nathaniel H. Bailey, and Miss Mary Hammond Bailey, of Griffin; Misses Sadie and Carrie Marshall Young, of Charlotte, N. C., and E. Witherbee Black Jr., of Port Chester, N. Y.

Dr. and Mrs. Stephen Barnett will entertain at a beautifully appointed breakfast this morning at the Piedmont Driving Club in compliment to Miss Sadler and Mr. O'Day. The affair will assemble the members of the wedding personnel and the guests from a distance who are here for the wedding. Breakfast will be served in the cocktail room of the club and the decorations of the beautifully appointed table will feature giant orchid and white dahlias in effective arrangement.

Last evening Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Storey Jr. were hosts at a buffet supper following the wedding rehearsal, in compliment to the bridal couple. The party was given at the Peachtree road home of the hosts' parents, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Lucas, who assisted in entertaining. The table in the dining room was graced in the center with a plateau of white roses, chrysanthemums, snapdragons and asters, fringed with valley lilies, the decorations adhering to the bridal motif of green and white.

Amor, the loveliest affairs given yesterday for Miss Sadler and her fiancé, was the aperitif party at which Mr. and Mrs. Henry W. Grady Jr. were hosts at their home on Wesley road, the affair assembling the visitors and the members of the wedding personnel.

Mrs. Robert Shedd and Mr. and Mrs. Henry W. Grady assisted the hosts in receiving their guests. Brilliantly tinted autumn flowers adorned the reception apartments of the home, and in the dining room the lace-covered table was graced in the center with a huge crystal bowl filled with pink chrysanthemums.

Another lovely affair among yesterday's events for Miss Sadler and Mr. O'Day was the breakfast at which Mr. and Mrs. Alfred C. Newell and their sons and daughters, Mr. and Mrs. Wright Bryan and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Whalley, entertained at the Newell home on Clifton road.

The guests included the members of the wedding party, the out-of-town visitors, and the members of the bride-elect's sewing club and their husbands, the list numbering 60. Breakfast was served from a lace-covered table in the dining room which held as a centerpiece a handsome antique silver bowl of Georgian design, filled with white dahlias. Coffee was served from a silver service at one end of the table and white tapers in silver holders completed the arrangements. The reception apartments of the home featured the bridal motif of green and white.

Louis Ellshemius, famous American painter, calls himself "The Transcendent Eagle of American Art."

Tech Opposes Auburn With Bill Jordan Unlikely To Play

Miss Fortune, the Only Co-ed At Tech, Is a Mean Huzzyl

Thursday afternoon—
Buc Gilmer, the "B" team fullback, was coming off tackle in a scrimmage at the Rose Bowl field—the last one before the Auburn game.

Bill Jordan, one of the greatest ends Tech ever had, and Scrappy Edwards, whose name tells his story, went for Gilmer.

Their heads met as they tackled. Bill Jordan got up, groggy. Edwards' head had struck him just below the temple, just under the cheek bone.

Later that evening they took him to the hospital. Yesterday they found nothing was broken. He was all right except for a severe concussion.

This morning the doctors will take his pulse, his blood pressure and his blood count and decide if he can play against Auburn this afternoon.

Miss Fortune likes the Tech people.
She frowned in the Duke game and a kick slid from Fletcher Sims' hands and Duke recovered it and went on to win a game they had lost.

She frowned on Thursday before the Auburn game and Bill Jordan was knocked out and with him half the Tech offense. Bill Jordan is the dazzle in the razzle-dazzle attack.

A mean, persistent huzzyl—this Miss Fortune. And the only co-ed at Tech.

REAL GLOOM.

There was a lot of gloom at Grant field yesterday. Mr. W. A. Alexander and his staff have taken it on the chin before. But just once they'd like a smile from that huzzyl, Miss Fortune. Just once, they'd like for passes to be slapped into the hands of their backs. Just once they'd like to get a fumble on their opponents' 12-yard line in a tight, tough game. Just once they'd like to throw all their strength into a big game.

There is hope, of course. Bill Jordan wants to play. They will just about have to tie him on the bench if they don't let him play.

The Jackets had hoped to take this one to make up for the adverse break in the Duke contest. They may anyhow. They were running hard yesterday. If they do they will be one of the gamiest teams of the week.

JACK MEAGHER.

Jack Meagher was around. He's the sort that lets the chips fall where they will.

"I'm sorry about Jordan," he said. "If he doesn't play it may be easier for us or it may not, I don't know. But I'd rather Tech had all she has in there. If we can win we want to win from the best Tech has and if we

Decatur, Marist To Meet Monday

Decatur High and Marist College postponed their important North Georgia interscholastic conference game until Monday night at 8 o'clock at Decatur. A heavy rain and muddy field caused the postponement from last night.

Decatur holds the 1936 championship with Commercial High and Monday night's game should be one of the best, in that one of the chief contenders for the championship will be eliminated.

Georgia, Mercer To Attract 12,000

Bulldogs in Shape, Excepting Quinton Lumpkin, Whose Foot Still Bothers Him.

By FELTON GORDON.

ATHENS, Ga., Oct. 22.—Thousands of fans were converging on Athens tonight to witness the Home-coming Day clash between the Georgia Bulldogs and the Mercer Bears here Saturday afternoon.

Coach Lake Russell and a squad of 25 men will arrive in town Saturday morning. The kickoff is set for 3 o'clock (2 o'clock Atlanta time).

All the Bulldogs appeared ready to go and no injuries were reported. Only Quinton Lumpkin, Georgia's great center, was a doubtful starter. He has been suffering from a severe foot injury sustained at Boston last Saturday, where Georgia played Holy Cross.

This is to be Georgia's greatest home-coming. Twelve thousand is the crowd predicted for the game.

The Pan-Hellenic Council announces that for the home-coming dances they have engaged the services of two famous bands, Frank Dailey and Frank LaMarr. Dailey, the virtuoso of swing, has been broadcasting over CBS for a number of years. LaMarr, an authority on the waltz, has for a number of years been heard over Both orchestras will appear on the same stage, both playing together. Both orchestras feature torch singers and male trios. This will be a battle of music, and, next to the big game, probably the most interesting feature of the home-coming festivities.

Georgia fans will get the opportunity Saturday to see what appears to be a great team in the making. The Bulldogs are getting better with every Saturday. The line averages 200 pounds to the man, while in the backfield there are Hartman, Cate, Hummick, Mims, Cavan, Holland, Fordham and Matthews, all fast and capable of getting away at any moment.

Georgia Students Hold Big Pep Meeting.

ATHENS, Ga., Oct. 22.—A gigantic pep meeting at Sanford field tonight, attended by over 2,000 students, set off Georgia's noisiest home-coming in years. Alumni were already trekking in when the Georgia gridders wound up preparation this afternoon for their game with the Mercer Bears Saturday at 3 p. m. (E.S.T.).

Among those on the pep meeting program were President Harmon W. Caldwell, T. W. Reed, Bill Hartman, H. J. Stegeman and Coach Harry Mehre. Perry J. Hudson, campus leader, led the cheers. Others included were Dr. W. O. Payne, E. E. (Shorty) Andrews, of Atlanta, and Bob McWhorter, star triple threat man of more than two decades ago.

A persistent rain held the Bulldogs at bay until near darkness tonight. They spent their time running through plays in Memorial Hall gym. When the sun came out Coach Harry Mehre immediately ordered his squad on the field. They ran signals for an hour "just to get the feel of the green."

Indications are that Vassa Cate, sophomore halfback, will offer a bigger threat in the tilt than ever before this season. He is even expected to equal his stellar performance of the Oglethorpe game.

HURRICANES NIP PURPLES, 18 TO 17

Boys' High Rallies To Score 15 Points in Fourth Quarter.

By ROY WHITE.

In a spectacular game of forward passing, Miami High defeated Boys' High, 18 to 17, at Ponce de Leon last night, before a small crowd of half-frozen spectators.

It was the second successive victory for the Florida eleven, which last year broke a 33-game winning streak for the Purples, and Captain Scherer, although he failed to score, was again the hero in the side of the Boys' High eleven.

Outclassed in every department of play and trailing, 18 to 2, going into the fourth quarter, Boys' High staged one of the most sensational rallies ever seen on Ponce de Leon park. The Purples scored two touchdowns, kicked an extra point and scored a safety, to pull within one point of a tie score as the game ended.

TOUCHDOWN PASS.

Miami scored first on a short drive of 32 yards. Captain Scherer passed 15 yards to Bates for the touchdown.

In the second quarter Miami took a Boys' High fumble on the Purples' 39-yard line and drove to the three, where they were held for downs. Miami blocked the punt and Crum fell on the ball for a touchdown.

Late in the second quarter, Miami took a Boys' High pass behind the goal line and attempted to run out but was tackled behind the line for a Boys' High safety.

A 14-yard pass, Scherer to Reid, gave Miami its last score early in the third quarter.

41-YARD DRIVE.

In the fourth quarter, Boys' High drove 41 yards to a score, with Barfield taking the ball over on a short buck. Boys' High kicked over the Miami goal and tackled Carter before he could get back out of the end zone for another safety.

Dan Greer took a Miami punt and ran 60 yards through the entire team for a touchdown, just before the game ended.

Russell High Beats Cartersville, 25-0.

Russell High eleven defeated Cartersville High, 25-0, last night at East Point on a muddy field. Ledbetter scored two touchdowns for the Wildcats, Jack Davis one, and Kadel the other. Davis also starred as a passer.

Roberts and Kirkland were best on defense for the winners while Butterworth was outstanding for the losers.

Cartersville threatened to score in the third quarter when they reached the Wildcat five-yard stripe.

Bill Jordan Unlikely To See Action Today

If Concussion Keeps Star End Out, Georgia Tech Will Be Decided Underdog.

By RALPH MCGILL.

Georgia Tech meets Auburn at 2 o'clock this afternoon on Grant field, and—
Bill Jordan, Georgia Tech's All-American end, lies in a hospital. Doctors this morning will decide whether the concussion, sustained in Thursday's scrimmage, has subsided enough to permit him to play.

It is very doubtful he will be in the lineup when the whistle shrills for what will be the 41st meeting between Tech and Auburn.

Jordan was in the hospital all day yesterday, having gone there at a relatively late hour the evening before. He was knocked groggy in practice as reported in yesterday's Constitution, and went in early, bathed and went to his room. Coaches, who had asked him to wait in the dressing room for a physician, went to his room and had him taken in for observation.

MIDDLE MAN.

Loss of Jordan would mean a decrease of at least 50 per cent in Tech's offensive threat. Jordan is "the middle man" in all Tech's razzle-dazzle which scored three touchdowns on Duke.

Loss of Jordan would change the entire aspect of the game and instead of sending Tech into the game with something of an even chance, would send Auburn in top-heavy favorites.

Coach Alexander announced at Grant field yesterday, where the Jackets went through a light workout, that George Smith, Jordan's substitute, would start in the event doctors say Jordan can't play.

The remainder of the Tech lineup will be the same. Dutch Konekman and Fletcher Sims will be ready to start as will Harry Appleby and Murphy. Konekman may not be at the Dutchman's position at the start.

The weather is expected to be cold and fair, ideal football weather.

Jack Meagher, Auburn coach, said yesterday his team was in good shape and that he believed the game would be a tough one with Auburn having a chance to win if the team played well.

Coach Alexander, with his team still battered and down from the terrific struggle with Duke, was quite downcast over the possible loss of Jordan.

TOUGH BREAK.

"It looked difficult enough," he said, "before Jordan was hurt. If he doesn't play we will be handicapped more than ever."

Auburn has won 22 games in the long series with Tech. The Jackets have won 15. Auburn has won the last three games.

Auburn's recent victory over Mississippi State indicates the Plainsmen have reached a high peak of effectiveness.

Fenton, Hitchcock, Seville, Kelley and Dutch Heath all are ready to go.

NEW YORK, Oct. 22.—(F)—The cotton market rally met reverses today and many recently climbing leaders were thrown for losses unning to 4 points generally.

A forenoon upturn in rails was thwarted. Weakness of steels killed the speculative atmosphere from the start and the more depressed issues closed around low levels of the day.

Carriers had their brief inning in reports the long-awaited freight rate decision would be handed down by the Interstate Commerce commission after the close. Most members of the transportation group, however, failed to hold their early advance and finished under water.

Transfers totaled 2,112,500 shares, compared with 3,636,051 Thursday. The Associated Press average of 60 stocks was off 1.1 points at 48.7, the same amount it gained yesterday.

The day's slip-up in stocks was considered "normal" by most analysts and was attributed to the north selling, delayed liquidation and the inclination of some traders to pocket a portion of their gains yielded in the preceding three days.

WEATHER WITH A ZIP
IS PROMISE FOR TODAY

Weather with a zip—the kind that lends an extra thrill to a football game—is scheduled for the Tech-Auburn game today, weather men predicted yesterday. The weather forecasters say there will be much in demand as mercury goes tumbling to 40 degrees this morning, the lowest of the season. Temperatures are expected to range above 50 degrees during the day, the weather men said.

Contrary to the usual order, the highest temperature yesterday came before daybreak, when the mercury rose to 58, while the low test was recorded last night at 40. Winds sweeping in from the northwest were responsible for the sudden drop.

TARZAN UNDER FIRE

No. 6

Though they trembled inwardly, Dick and Doc made a display of outward calm as they followed Tarzan into the strange village. To their surprise they found there, not hostile cannibals, but a simple, gentle jungle folk, who received them warmly.

Of more interest to the ape-man was an affair in the center of the village, where an oily Arab trader was exchanging cheap trinkets and shoddy trade goods for precious ivory. Tarzan strode forward and spoke to the childish blacks: "This man is cheating you!"

Abdul Kees, the trader, snarled angrily. "What business is it of yours?" "Whatever is unjust is my business," the Jungle Lord declared calmly; "and I punish those who deal unfairly with the people of the forest. If you would avoid that punishment, go!"

The Arab feared this strange white savage who spoke with such menacing authority. Quickly he packed up his goods and departed. But in his angry haste he forgot a desire for revenge, and his crafty mind was already busy with plans to achieve his evil purpose!

PRESIDENT ACCEPTS INVITATION TO VISIT GAINESVILLE NOV. 25

Roosevelt to Dedicate Monument, Square on Way to Warm Springs.

By GLADSTONE WILLIAMS.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 22.—President Roosevelt today formally accepted an invitation to go to Gainesville, Ga., Thanksgiving Day, November 25, and take part in ceremonies incident to the unveiling of a monument commemorating the aid he extended in the reconstruction of the city after the disastrous storm of last year.

The invitation was extended in a personal interview by a delegation of prominent Georgians who came to Washington this morning for this purpose. Headed by Edgar B. Dunlap, of Gainesville, chairman of the committee on arrangements, the delegation included Senator Walter F. George, Representative Richard B. Russell Jr., Representative Frank Whelchel, of Gainesville; Lawrence Wood Robert Jr., of Atlanta, former assistant secretary of the treasury, representing Governor Rivers, of Georgia; Robert W. Johnson, president of the Chickopee Mills, of Gainesville; Albert Hardy, editor of the Gainesville News; Colonel Sandy Beaver, head of Riverside Military Academy, and Dr. S. V. Sanford, chancellor of the University System of Georgia.

Warm Springs Dinner.

Under the program outlined for the President's visit, Mr. Roosevelt will stop over at Gainesville on his way to Warm Springs, where he is planning to attend Thanksgiving dinner with the Warm Springs Foundation. Arriving at Gainesville about 10 o'clock in the morning, he and his party will spend about two hours in the city, reviewing the reconstruction work accomplished and attending the monument dedication ceremonies before proceeding to Warm Springs. He is due to reach the latter at 4 o'clock that afternoon.

Arrangements are being made to accommodate one of the greatest crowds in the history of the city to welcome the President. An elaborate program has been drawn for the occasion, featuring a speech by Mr. Roosevelt in response to the dedication.

Governor Rivers will deliver the welcoming address for the state according to the plans announced here, to be followed by Senator Russell, who will dedicate the monument, erected in front of the Hall county courthouse. Senator George will introduce the President while Representative Whelchel will welcome Mr. Roosevelt in behalf of Gainesville and the ninth congressional district. Mr. Dunlap will preside over the gathering as master of ceremonies.

All Georgia Invited. An open invitation has been extended to the people of Georgia to attend the ceremonies. Thousands are expected to be on hand.

In addition to the party accompanying the President on his annual pilgrimage to Warm Springs, Jesse Jones, director of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, which financed rehabilitation loans to the city, also has accepted an invitation to attend the ceremonies.

Leaving Washington November 24, the President will be accompanied by Senator George, Senator Russell, Mr. Robert, Robert Johnson and Representative Whelchel.

Governors' Conference. While at Warm Springs, Mr. Roosevelt has tentatively accepted an invitation to meet with the nine governors of the southeastern states incident to their program for the greater industrial development of the region. Arrangements for the meeting were made at a recent conference with the chief executive by Mr. Robert, who is industrial consultant to the Southeastern Governors' Conference. Mr. Roosevelt will invite the governors to join him at Warm Springs subject to the condition that he remains at the Georgia resort longer than Thanksgiving Day. If the weather is suitable, he has indicated he may go on a brief fishing trip in the Gulf of Mexico off the Florida or Alabama coast.

In the event the southeastern governors go to Warm Springs, the date tentatively set is November 26, the day after Thanksgiving. Mr. Robert will confer with Mr. Roosevelt again within the next few days to discuss final arrangements for the meeting.

In keeping with his annual custom, the President will attend the annual Thanksgiving Day dinner of the Warm Springs Foundation, of which he is the honorary head.

50,000 Expected. According to Mr. Dunlap, who is RFC counsel in Georgia, upwards of 50,000 people are expected to attend the Gainesville Thanksgiving Day ceremonies. Other features of the official program made known here today will include a review of the state national guard, the state highway patrol, R. O. T. C. units from the University of Georgia, Georgia Tech, North Georgia College (Dahlonega), and Riverside Military Academy, together with 8,000 school children from Gainesville and the surrounding territory.

Dr. R. L. Russell, pastor of the First Methodist church, of Gainesville, and president of the local Rotary Club, will deliver the invocation, while the benediction will be pronounced by the Rev. Marshall Dendy, pastor of the First

Scottish Lass And Irish Lad Can't Kiss, B'gad

DUNDALK, Irish Free State, Oct. 22.—(UP)—Julia Clarke, a Scottish lass, blue-eyed and brunette, was barred for life from the Irish Free State today for kissing her boy friend in public. Three members of a local vigilance committee witnessed the tender interlude in a churchyard at the seaside village of Blackrock and summoned a policeman. District court justices sentenced Julia, absent in Scotland as the case came up, to one month of imprisonment. The sentence was passed in the words of the presiding justice, "to keep her out of the Free State for ever," since she would be liable to arrest if she ever returns to Ireland. Julia's boy friend was fined $10. The case was the first in which Section 18 of the 1935 criminal law amendment act known as "De Valera's vice law" was invoked. The law forbids "any act of indecency or causing scandal or injury to the morals of the community."

WASHINGTON, Oct. 22.—(UP)—Senator Walter F. George, Democrat, Georgia, today condemned the proposed federal anti-lynching bill as "ill-conceived legislation" which, if enacted, would be declared unconstitutional. "Everyone is opposed to lynching," he said, "and every effort
